FILLIBUSTER ON TO PREVENT SENATE VOTE ON LORIMER

Beveridge of Indiana Holds Floor and Shows No Signs of Letup in Speech, Blocking Burrows in Effort to Have a Time Set for Taking of a Ballot.

THROW THE CASE INTO A SPECIAL SESSION

Three Roll Calls Are Necessary to Preserve a Quorum and Each Time the Members Retire to the Ante-Rooms as Soon as Names Are Called.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Continuing this afternoon in his speech advocating the unseating of Lorimer of Illinois, Senator Beveridge showed little if any evidence of a purpose to make good his intimation of yesterday that he would speedily conclude. As the day wore on, the proceedings assumed the appearance of a filibuster against a vote in the case.

This suspicion was strengthened when Burrows of Michigan, chairman of the committee which investigated the bribe charges against Lorimer and one of his strongest supporters, sought to induce the Senate to fix a time when it would take a vote. When he attempted this Beveridge, who had been recognized by the chair, declined to yield the floor.

May Go to Extra Session.

A successful filibuster against the vote would mean that the Lorimer question would be thrown over into the special session. Some of Lorimer's partisans will be missing from the new Senate, among them Burrows, who will be succeeded by a man who is a pronounced opponent of the Illinoisan. Beveridge will be gone also, but his place will be taken by John W. Kern, a Democrat and former running mate of Bryan.

Those who believe that the charges of bribery in the Lorimer election are true and that he should be driven out of the Senate are convinced that their chances of unseating him would be much greater in the new organization.

Beveridge proceeded to his arraignment of Lorimer this afternoon to a top-heavy Senate chamber. The galleries were filled, but the floor looked as it does when the dullest of business is being enacted. Several roll calls were demanded in order to bring members on the floor, but arriving in response to the call, their stay was always brief.

There were two calls for a quorum in the first half hour. The first was made by Senator Owen and the second by Senator La Follette. The latter called attention to the fact that there were only seven senators present. Beveridge protested against both calls, saying that senators generally were at lunch.

Talk to American People.

"Moreover," he added, "I guess I will have to talk to the American people, as apparently senators don't want to hear the facts."

On the second roll call 10 minutes was spent in getting a majority of senators in the chamber. Many left as soon as they responded to their names.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the third call for a quorum was ordered because of the demand of Senator Owen, and it was accomplished in a dramatic manner. The previous quorum of 46 members having disappeared as rapidly as individual senators answered to their names, Owen was moved to address the chair.

Beveridge having announced that he would not yield to any senator to raise the point of no quorum, the Oklahoma Senator demanded recognition on a question of order. Appeals by Beveridge were unavailing, as Owen said he considered the matter before the Senate so vital that it affected the very integrity of the Senate itself.

Senator Gallinger protested that as Beveridge had not yielded, Owen was out of order, and then the Indiana Senator consented to the recognition of the Oklahoma member.

"I rise to a question of privilege," asserted Owen, "and as I understand it, the consent of the Senator from Indiana is not necessary. Senators must have had time to finish their lunches and I rise to the point of no quorum."

"I can't prevent it, of course," said Beveridge, "I can only appeal."

Quorum Is Restored.

The call was ordered and a quorum temporarily was obtained. Beveridge spoke approvingly of the course of State Representative Meyers in resisting offers said to have been made to him.

"And yet, although he allowed a man to come to his desk and offer him a bribe," remarked Senator Gallinger, "you say he was a reputable man."

"I do," responded Beveridge. "What would you have him do?"

"I don't think he should have let him get away without hitting him."

"I suppose he should have killed him—well, if every man approached by Browne had undertaken to kill.

CHAMPAGNE AND LOBSTER WRECK PYIVATE CAR BILL

Beer and Poker Chips Also Help Phelps' Questions and Knott's Answers to Pat Railroad Commissioners Afoot.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 24.—Representative William H. Phelps and Railroad Commissioner John A. Knott exchanged reminiscences last night at a meeting of the House Railroad Committee, of which Phelps is a member.

The committee had under consideration a bill introduced at the instance of Knott, which sought to compel railroad companies to furnish a private car for the commissioners when inspecting railroads.

Phelps said that, inasmuch as he was a candidate for Railroad Commissioner, he would like to ask Knott what the railroads now furnished voluntarily. He said he feared if the bill became a law the commissioners would lose, not gain, if the companies were as liberal as in the days when he accompanied the commissioners.

He asked Knott:

"What do the railroad companies now provide in the way of good things to eat and drink?"

"Everything the commissioners want," replied Knott.

"Steak?"

"Yes."

"Chicken?"

"Yes."

"Lobsters?"

"Yes."

"Angel food?"

"I don't know what that is. I have never eaten any."

"Beer?"

"Yes."

"Whisky?"

"Yes."

"Brandy?"

"Yes."

"Champagne?"

"Yes."

"Water?"

"I don't remember about that."

"Poker chips?"

"Yes."

"Table with 'kitty'?"

"Yes."

"Who wins in the game?"

"Railroad Commissioner" Rube Oglesby interrupted with the statement:

"I can tell you who didn't win when I played."

"Who?"

"I didn't."

"Did any of the railroad men win?"

The inquiry was stopped about here, with the whispered suggestion by a member of the committee that the commissioners could better inspect the tracks on foot than in private cars.

The committee, after hearing the statement of the commissioner, killed the bill by voting that it be reported adversely.

BABY GRANDSON BRINGS BEGGS TO HIS ST. LOUIS JOB

Four-Mouths-Old Child Needs Magnate's Attention, He Says, When He Quits Milwaukee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 24.—"I want to build up something to leave that little 4-months-old cub down there in St. Louis, my grandson, who is handicapped with my name."

At 63, John L. Beggs, president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., many times a millionaire, will drop his traction interests here, where he is general manager of the street car properties of the North American Co., and take up the task of reorganizing a car manufacturing concern, and all because of "a little 4-months-old cub." That was his explanation today of his retirement.

"When I was a young man I made up my mind that when I got to be 50 I'd quit work and travel," he said. "They didn't cajole me into remaining in the harness; they shamed me into it."

Not Allowed to Quit.

"'You can't quit now, Beggs,'" they said. 'Why you're too much of a fighting man to quit.'"

"That was when they wanted me to go to Cincinnati and reorganize a bankrupt lighting company. I wanted to quit, but my Scotch-Irish blood got the best of me and I went to Cincinnati.

"Then the Milwaukee company was in trouble. I suggested a way of making it a good property.

"'All right, you go up there and prove you're right,' they said.

"And I came.

"Now there's a little cub down there in St. Louis whom they've handicapped by naming after me. Somehow, I'd like to leave that cub something that bears my name, something I've built up myself. That's why I'm going to St. Louis to reorganize the St. Louis Car Co. I guess I'll never see Egypt after all."

Praised by Campbell.

James Campbell, president of the North American Co., who is in Milwaukee, paid a tribute to Beggs.

"Mr. Beggs retires against the wishes of everyone interested," said Campbell. "I do not thing he will have a successor. It will take several men to fill his place. Beggs is an ideal executive of a great company.

Recently Beggs became president of the reorganized St. Louis Car Co. His son-in-law is Richard McCulloch, vice-president and assistant general manager of the United Railways Co., and it is his son to whom he alludes in his interview.

Beggs was formerly president of the United Railways, Union Electric and Laclede Gas Light Co. The Laclede was purchased by St. Louisans about a year ago. The other two companies are still controlled by the North American, of which James Campbell is president. The relations between Campbell and Beggs have been strained for some time.

WILL FIDDLE FOR COURT

Negro Hopes to Show Werremeyer He's Not a Vagabond.

Fred Cannon, negro, arrested for vagrancy in Clayton, in court next Thursday will play selections from grand opera on his violin to convince Justice Werremeyer he is not a vagabond, but a professional musician.

When Cannon was put in jail he said: "This is nothing new. I have been sleeping in the boiler room of the jail all winter."

The negro, after playing his violin in saloons at night, had crept into the boiler room in the basement of the jail.

$800 OF THEATER MEN'S BEER CASH IS ODDLY MISSING

All but $50 of the money spent for beer at the Theatrical Brotherhood ball at the Coliseum Thursday night was stolen Friday. The amount taken was $800, enough to buy 16,000 glasses of the foamy beverage.

The festive occasion demanded two bars in the Coliseum. One was run by H. R. Ruhlman and the other by F. B. Krewinghaus. They agreed to divide receipts and to keep their money in a locker in Ruhlman's bar in the basement on the Washington avenue side of the building.

When they counted their cash after the bars closed at 1 a. m. they had $850. Ruhlman, by agreement, kept the key to the locker.

Friday collectors for the breweries went early to the Coliseum to get a share of the money that had been spent for beer.

Krewinghaus, at 11 a. m., got the keys from Ruhlman and opened the locker. He took out $50 with which to pay a bill and he says he is sure he locked the door before handing the keys back to Ruhlman.

He is equally positive in his statement that all of the money was there.

An hour later Nat Klein of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association went to collect a bill from Ruhlman.

When Ruhlman put the key in the lock he found the door unfastened and when he looked in the cupboard was bare. Not even a beer check remained to tell of the flood of money which had poured over the bars while the merrymakers were in the big hall.

Ruhlman and Krewinghaus hurried to the Laclede Avenue Police Station and reported their loss.

NAME OF WOMAN IN ARMY SCANDAL SECRET FOREVER

Dismissal by Courtmartial of Capt. Guy H. B. Smith Approved by President.

CHARGES WERE SEALED

Army Gossip, However, Says Unbecoming Conduct Concerned an Officer's Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 24.—"And the woman shall be nameless." This is the pledge of all officers who were in any way connected with the courtmartial which tried Capt. Guy H. B. Smith of the Fourth Infantry. The Court recommended the dismissal of the Captain from the service and the President approved the finding of the court Thursday.

The formal charge, and all that the records in this sealed mystery of United States service show, is that Capt. Smith is found guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. That is all that will ever be known officially, for every man connected with the trial was sworn to "secrecy forever." The trial was at Fort Leavenworth last July.

Building Under Guard.

Only essential witnesses were present when court convened. No officer under rank of Major sat in the deliberations. A guard of soldiers was posted around the building and only officers who served the court were allowed to pass. Not a bit of testimony reached the outside. The findings of the court were sealed and sent to Washington.

The extraordinary secrecy excited curiosity. The case was the talk of all Western army posts. The records of the army in the West show no case parallel to it in secrecy. It was known, however, among all army men, that Capt. Smith's accounts as commissary and adjutant of his regiment were correct to a penny.

Was West Point Man.

Capt. Smith's rank dated from December, 1900. He was a West Point man, credited to Michigan, at the time of his appointment, in 1887. The army was the pride of his family. His father was a West Point engineer, who served through the Civil War, and was retired as a Brigadier-General.

Despite the secrecy, gossip began to filter into Fort Leavenworth from Fort Crook. It is generally accepted that the trouble involving Capt. Smith gathered suddenly and broke while the Fourth Infantry was returning on a transport from the Philippines. Three days before the boat reached San Francisco the Captain was arrested and relieved of his duties as Commissary and Adjutant. He was removed to Fort Crook and the charges sent to the headquarters of the Department of the Missouri, which ordered the "closed court."

Witnesses All Officers.

Officers, it is said, when they learned that the reason for the secrecy was that the honor of a woman was involved, made no effort to find who she was. The women of the garrison are said to have found that she was the wife of an officer of the regiment. There were five witnesses at the trial, all officers. A number of depositions were submitted, also, one that of "the woman who shall be nameless," it is said.

It was said in garrison gossip that the basis of the charges against the Captain was that he entered the wrong stateroom on the transpacific voyage and found it occupied by the wife of a brother officer. Capt. Smith has a wife and son 5 years old. The verdict of the court strips Smith of his hopes of a military career.

PRISONER DIES OF INJURY DIAGNOSED AS A SCALP WOUND

Dispensary and Hospital Physicians Did Not Believe Koon's Hurt Was Serious.

WAS FINED FOR FIGHT

Man Alleged to Have Struck Him Fatal Blow Was Discharged in Police Court.

The final curtain fell on a tragedy of errors when Frank Koons died at the city hospital of skull fracture after he had been arrested as a peace disturber, held a prisoner for five hours in the Magnolia avenue holdover, treated for a "scalp wound" at the city dispensary and fined in the Dayton Street Police Court, while the man now alleged to have struck him a fatal blow was exonerated and discharged by Judge Tracy.

Koons died Thursday night, after city hospital physicians had diagnosed his complaint as an infected scalp wound. The immediate cause of death was meningitis, which is now said to have been caused by a fracture at the base of the skull.

Koons and Frank Schwartz of 4472 Vista avenue fought at Swan and Taylor avenues Feb. 9. A general order for Schwartz's arrest was sent out to all police districts Friday when the police learned from a Post-Dispatch reporter that Koons was dead. No notification of the death was sent to the police by the city hospital authorities.

When Koons and Schwartz were arrested Koons told the police of the Magnolia Avenue District that Schwartz struck him with a heavy galvanized iron bucket. He was taken to the Central Dispensary, where Dr. Royston said that he had a lacerated scalp wound which was not serious. He was taken back to the police station and was held there four hours before he was released on bond.

Koons and Schwartz appeared in the Clark Avenue Police Court Feb. 10 on cross-charges of peace disturbance. Schwartz testified that Koons called him a name and admitted striking Koons with the bucket. Schwartz was discharged and Koons was fined $5, which he paid.

Believing that he had only a scalp wound, Koons continued to work, as usual. A week ago he complained of pains in his head. Last Saturday his suffering was so intense that he asked the police to have him removed to the city hospital.

There his ailment was diagnosed as a scalp wound. Thursday afternoon his condition rapidly became worse and he went into convulsions peculiar to meningitis.

An autopsy will be held to determine the exact cause of death, but hospital physicians now say they do not doubt that his skull was fractured.

Schwartz was arrested at his home Friday afternoon. He says he struck Koons in self-defense after Koons had drawn a knife and threatened to stab him.

70 vs. 67

The above figures alone mean nothing of special interest to the reader, but when it is explained that the figure 70 means the number of columns of St. Louis merchants' display advertising carried by the POST-DISPATCH yesterday, Thursday, Feb. 23rd, and that the figure 67 means the total number of columns of this same class of advertising carried

By The Three Next

largest competitors of the POST-DISPATCH COMBINED, on the same day, under the same conditions, its meaning and importance is clear.

Remember, that no other metropolitan newspaper in the United States so far outclasses its local competitors in the volume of legitimate paid advertising of its home merchants, as does the POST-DISPATCH in its field.

GREEK AND BRIDE WHO ARE TO LEAD BIG PARADE TO ALTAR

MISS KALLIOPE PAPADOPOULOUS.

JAMES KOUTSOUKOS

GREEK WILL CLAIM HIS BRIDE AT THE HEAD OF A PARADE

Rich St. Louis Merchant Plans Wedding That Includes Many Novel Features.

Jim Koutsoukos, general merchant and one of the richest Greeks in the St. Louis colony, is going to show St. Louis Saturday that Lord Decies is not the only person in the world that can have a marriage worth seeing.

Decies met Vivien Gould at the church. That's not Jim Koutsoukos' way. Jim is going to lead a parade from his dry goods store and hotel, at Sixth and Elm streets, to the bride's home at 6 North Grand avenue, and then parade back with the bride to Druids' Hall, at Sixth and Market streets, where the ceremony will be performed. In the parade will be autos, carriages and a multitude of guests on foot.

A band will lead the parade both going to and coming from the bride's home. The line of march probably will be out Chestnut street and the parade is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. The plan is to reach Druid's Hall on the triumphant return march at 3 p. m. when the Rev. P. Phiambolis of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church will conduct the marriage ceremony in the north hall.

Before leaving the room in which the marriage takes place the principals and the spectators will partake of the following appetizers:

Candy, cognac (a pony), water (small glass) and a sugar plum.

This step accomplished, all will repair to the south hall where a banquet will have been prepared. The menu for the banquet is: Roast lamb, lettuce and chickory salads, cheese, mastiha, beer.

Mastiha is a Greek cocktail, which will be served only at dinner at the tables. It will be different with the beer and the music. No time for a cessation of the beer and the music has been set.

Steve Jameson of the committee that is arranging the celebration says that it will be the policy of the committee to continue the beer and the music as long as anyone is able to dance.

"I don't think," Jameson told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "that anyone will get tired dancing before the next morning."

Other members of the Celebration Committee are James George, Peter Mehas, Bill Klouthes, Tony Melis, George Coutsoukos, William Stathouopoulos and A. Rokas.

Koutsoukos is 34 years old and Miss Kalliope Papadopoulous 22 years. The bride-to-be has been in the United States only a year and a half. Koutsoukos came to St. Louis from Greece nine years ago. He owns considerable property in the vicinity of Sixth and Elm streets, including a dry goods store, a barber shop, a saloon, a hotel and a grocery store.

PROF. BURKE, OF YEATMAN HIGH, IS IN VAUDEVILLE

Identity of Fannie Hurst's Partner in Her Sketch Is Discovered.

Here is a secret revealed.

The actor appearing under the name "Arnold Donald," with Miss Fannie Hurst, in her one-act sketch entitled "Home," at a local theater this week, is Melville Burke, professor of history and English at the Yeatman High School. Until now he has carefully concealed his identity and none of his pupils and only a few of his closest friends knew that he was appearing nightly on the professional stage.

Miss Hurst, a talented graduate of Washington University, has received much praise for the excellence of the little sketch, which she wrote herself, and her acting of the half-humorous, half-pathetic role of Mrs. Richard Spottiswood Beresford. "Arnold Donald" also has pleased the critics and the many questions as to his identity led to the discovery by a Post-Dispatch reporter that he is the same quiet, dignified young man who delivers erudite lectures twice a day at the Yeatman High School.

Prof. Burke says that he has no thought of becoming an actor.

"I appeared in amateur theatricals occasionally when I was at Harvard," he said, "and I consented to aid Miss Hurst in producing her sketch. We rehearsed it for weeks before we felt confident enough to put it on. I greatly enjoy the diversion which the daily performances afford me and I have, I think, increased my efficiency as an educator by my observations of human nature behind the scenes."

Miss Hurst's sketch shows the struggles of an impecunious husband and a stage-struck wife in a third-rate New York boarding house. All turns out well when the husband receives a cablegram that he has fallen heir to an English estate and title.

WOMAN KILLED BY CAR IDENTIFIED THROUGH A PASS

POLICE BELIEVE A RELATIVE MISTAKEN

She Glances Reluctantly at Body in Morgue, and Expresses Opinion It Is That of Mrs. Lena Moore, Wife of Her Brother-in-Law.

A woman struck by a Page car at 8:45 a. m. Friday, at Spring and Finney avenues, died an hour later, without regaining consciousness, at the city hospital. Her skull and an arm were broken.

Post-Dispatch reporters found, after an investigation covering four hours, that Mrs. Anna Moore of 3821 Windsor place was missing, that she answered the description of the woman, was dressed similarly and had a nickelodeon pass made out to "Mrs. Moore." She lived about two blocks from the scene of the accident, and had left home a little after 8 o'clock to go to a private school at Fairfax and Taylor avenues. She did not arrive there.

This left no doubt in the minds of her family and friends that it was she who was killed, and Vialo Coleman, who boards at the house, sent a telegram to that effect to her husband, W. J. Moore, now in Houston, Tex.

Theories Differ.

Despite this, Mrs. Frederick Moore of 4515 Morgan street, after reading newspaper accounts of the accident, telephoned to the Morgue that the body must be that of her brother-in-law's wife; Mrs. Lena Moore of 3669 Finney avenue. She said her brother-in-law, Frank Moore, was out of work.

Mrs. Moore said she had not seen Mrs. Lena Moore for a year. She went to the Morgue, but hesitated to look at the body. After glancing at it, she said she was satisfied it was Mrs. Lena Moore, and went away to notify her family.

Mrs. Frederick Moore could not explain the fact that the dead woman wore a wedding ring bearing the initials "C. H. D." Coleman said that Mrs. Anna Moore had been twice married, he believed, and that this ring probably was from the first marriage.

The police expressed conviction that the dead woman was Mrs. Anna Moore.

Mrs. Anna Moore had two children—Helma, 12 years old, and Loraine, 18. Loraine is employed as a post-card painter, and it was through her acquaintance with employes at the nickelodeon to which the dead woman had a pass that Post-Dispatch reporters found the trail which led to the Windsor place home.

Pass for Daughter.

The pass in the purse was to the Alps, an Easton avenue nickelodeon.

Louis Wagner, proprietor of the nickelodeon, said the pass was given to the mother of a girl named Loraine Moore, who was a friend of the ticket taker, and that this was how the pass came into her possession. The girl is employed by the Charles L. Clark Card Co., in the Victoria Building, and by telephoning there, policemen learned that she lived at 3821 Windsor place.

Investigation by Post-Dispatch reporters showed that a Mrs. Annie Moore lived at 3821 Windsor place, two blocks from where the accident occurred. An attendant at the flat there said that Mrs. Moore left home to go shopping at 8 a. m., and that she had a daughter, Loraine, employed in a store downtown.

The woman did not recover consciousness after she was hurt. She had a compound fracture of the skull and a broken arm and died at the city hospital an hour after the accident.

The woman was crossing Finney avenue from the south side, and crossing behind a crowded eastbound car did not hear the westbound car coming. Passengers on the rear of the eastbound car saw the accident, and gathered about the woman as she lay in the gutter, several yards from where she was run down.

Car as Ambulance.

E. L. Sanders and R. C. Bernstein, motorman and conductor of the westbound car, picked the woman up and took her aboard. They had only two or three passengers, and they converted the car into an ambulance, running it swiftly west to Taylor avenue and turning then to run to 704 North Taylor, where Dr. M. L. Klinefelter, a United Railways surgeon, has an office.

She died on the emergency operating table at the hospital a few minutes after being sent there.

IMMIGRATION IN JAPAN'S CONTROL BY NEW TREATY

Text of Document Now Under Consideration, Is Given Out in Washington.

RUNS FOR TWELVE YEARS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The new Japanese treaty, the text of which was published here today and which now is pending before the Senate, comprises 18 articles. Most of those cover subjects already treated in the existing convention, though in many instances the language of articles is changed to make the provisions conform to modern conditions.

Perhaps the most important feature of the document which, while not part of the treaty, is attached to it in connection with the correspondence, is the following declaration:

"In proceeding this day to the signature of the treaty of commerce and navigation between Japan and the United States, the undersigned, Japanese Ambassador in Washington, duly authorized by his Government, has the honor to declare that the Imperial Japanese Government are fully prepared to maintain with equal effectiveness the limitation and control which they have for the past three years exercised in the regulation of the emigration of laborers to the United States.

Feb. 2, 1911. Y UCHIDA."

Analysis of Document.

The first article of the treaty asserts the right of citizens or subjects of the two countries to enter, travel or reside in the territories of the other, to carry on trade, lease houses and shops and residences and generally do anything incident to trade. They are exempted from any special taxation not imposed upon native subjects and are guaranteed "the most constant protection and security for their persons and property" on submitting themselves to conditions imposed upon natives.

They also are exempted from military service and forced loans.

The second article is purely formal and guards against domiciliary visits and searches of subjects of one country in another, except upon the same conditions as are imposed on natives. It is in this article that there is noted the exception or elimination of the provision contained in the existing treaty, recognizing the right of each country to regulate immigration.

The third article contains the right to appoint consular officers, "except in those (places) where it may not be convenient to recognize such officers."

Article 4 is the usual treaty article guaranteeing the reciprocal freedom of commerce and navigation. Article 5 provides that import duties shall be regulated "either by special arrangements between the two countries or by the internal legislation of each."

Article on Corporations.

Article 6 exempts citizens from transit duties and other charges not imposed on natives. Corporations are dealt with in article 7, which permits them to appear in courts, subject to the laws of the country, although it is stipulated that the permission to corporations to transact business must remain subject to local laws.

In article 8 it is provided that there shall be no discrimination between the vessels of the two countries in their right to carry imports without being liable to other or higher charges of duties than national vessels. The same rule applies to exportation and to the payment of export duties, bounties and drawbacks.

Articles 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 all relate to shipping, their general purport being to prevent and discrimination as between the vessels of the two countries in their treatment, although the coasting trade of the two countries is especially excepted.

Article 14 promises that any trade or navigation privilege extended to another country shall be enjoyed by the signatories to this treaty. Article 15 confers protection for patents, trademarks and designs.

Treaty Is for Twelve Years.

The remaining three articles are functional and concern the life of the treaty and other matters. In brief, they provide that this treaty shall supersede the treaty of 1894, when it becomes operative July 17, 1911, and that it shall remain in force 12 years.

At the end of 12 years the treaty also continues operative, unless six months' notice to the contrary is given. Ratifications must be exchanged in Tokio "not later than three months from the present date." (An important provision in connection with its consideration before Congress.)

A protocol continues existing tariff relation, pending the conclusion of the special tariff arrangements referred to in the treaty.

EMMA GOLDMAN CALLS RACE IDEA OF ELIOT FOOLISH

Unlike the Professor She Does Not Believe Every Woman Should Have 8 Children.

Two of the clearest blue eyes in the world looked through a pair of strong lenses at the Maryland Hotel Friday and two of the firmest jaws on earth snapped together on the vigorous assertion: "The college professor who says that there should be eight children in every family is a fool."

The college professor to whom Miss Emma Goldman—for it was indeed she—referred was Dr. Charles W. Eliot, emeritus president of Harvard.

Miss Goldman, high priestess of anarchy, didn't care who it was.

"I believe in free speech and I say what I like," she said.

Calls It Criminal.

"It is criminal to preach the doctrine of large families in these days when our so-called civilization is lowering the vitality of our women, especially in the cities," snapped the firm jaws while the wonderful steady blue eyes beamed benevolence.

"No woman should bring into the world children to whom she cannot give both physical strength and moral direction. Such power is found today only among country-bred women and only among a small percentage of them.

"If the women of St. Louis will listen to me I will tell them things which they never before heard preached from a lecture platform. Next Tuesday and Thursday nights I will speak at the Wednesday Club, but not under the auspices of that fashionable and exclusive organization.

Reedy Helps Her.

"But, through the efforts of Miss Alice Martin I have obtained the club hall for two of my meetings and with the kind aid of William Marion Reedy I am to have Recital Hall at the Odeon for three other lectures.

"Heretofore when I have come to St. Louis the police have thwarted my attempts to engage desirable halls.

"I was forced to take Druids' Hall at Ninth and Market streets, but things have changed. Anarchy is no longer regarded as an evil to be stamped out. Some of the best people in the world, and I might also say some of the best people in St. Louis, are anarchists.

"Will I do anything violent while I am in St. Louis? Indeed I will. I shall make people think—and that is a most violent operation. The world has always been ready to persecute those who tried to make people think.

To Talk on Tolstoy.

"My subject Tuesday night will be "Tolstoy, Artist and Rebel." Many think that Tolstoy was opposed only to government in Russia. I will show that he was opposed to government everywhere. Thursday night I shall speak on that striking drama recently published, John Galsworthy's "Justice." I shall tell of the horrible evils attendant upon our present system of punishing crime and show how the penitentiaries make criminals.

"Next Sunday afternoon at the Odeon recital hall I shall speak on the eternal spirit of revolution, and Sunday evening on the social importance of the modern school. My final leacture next Wednesday night will be on the victims of morality.

"I will show how our present conventions make slaves of women and weaken the race. When I am through talking no one who hears me will believe the silly college professor who says there ought to be eight children in every family."

OFFERS $50 FOR $2968

Physician Loses Wallet and Posts a Reward.

Dr. Victor H. Marchetti of 4725 Pennsylvania avenue offered $50 reward Friday for a wallet he lost Thursday night containing $2968 and a check for $35.

That the wallet was lost was discovered by the physician when he started to pay a dinner bill at Faust's. He reported his loss to the police, and said that he did not believe anyone had been close enough to him to steal the money. It had dropped out of his pocket, he thought. He was sure he had it when he left home in the morning.

DOGS FORGET ALL BROTHERLY LOVE IN FIERCE FIGHT

Pepper and Salt of Clayton Don't Allow Family Ties to Stand Between Conflict.

Salt and Pepper, bulldogs and brothers, have been the terror of all other dogs in Clayton. But they had a falling out about something Friday and for 25 minutes they fought desperately on the courthouse square, while 75 persons stood around and watched them. A good many bets were made, the favorite being Salt, but the fight did not reach a finish. Roland Johnson, former Prosecuting Attorney, separated the dogs, after each had lost an ear. Pepper seemed to have the best of Salt when they were pried apart.

After the fight the brothers went to their kennel and lay down, three feet apart, and eyed each other.

Salt and Pepper are owned by Joe Zrka, a tailor. Since they were born, four years ago, they had always been inseparable companions, sleeping together in the same kennel, foraging together for bones and trotting the streets together in search of other dogs to whip. They have killed three dogs in the last year.

BOARD OF HEALTH TO TAKE UP COMPLAINT

Witness Will Be Asked to Tell of Alleged Habit of Conductors Not Heating Cars.

At the next meeting of the Board of Health next Thursday L. E. Hildebrand will be called upon to testify regarding his complaint that some conductors of the United Railways draw the fires in the stoves in their cars into the coal buckets long before the end of the run, allowing gas from the blazing coals to permeate the entire car to the discomfort and injury of the passengers.

In a letter received by the board, Hildebrand claimed that numerous conductors were in the habit of doing this, especially on the single trip runs during the rush hours, when the traffic is heaviest. He only gave one specific instance. He claimed that conductor 2221, on Tower Grove car 591, Feb. 21, drew the fire while they were still east of Twelfth street and that the glowing coals gave off gas until the car was turned into the sheds at Chouteau and Jefferson avenues.

Rivers and Harbors Report Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The House today adopted the conference report of the river and harbor bill.

7 WEALTHY MEN LIKELY TO FIGHT TAX COLLECTION

Francis, Scullin and Wade Among Those Asking for a Separation of Bills.

INCREASE IN REQUESTS

850 More Persons Ask Division of Personal and Real Amounts Than Last Year.

That seven taxpayers, assessed an aggregate of $3,251,010 on personal property, intend to resist efforts of the city to enforce payment of taxes on this amount, is indicated by the fact that they have asked the Collector and Comptroller to separate their personal tax bills from their real estate tax bills.

Those who made this request are: David R. Francis, assessed on personal property $2,000,000; John Scullin, $1,000,000; Festus J. Wade, $66,010; Thomas Ward McManus, $50,000; Henry S. Priest, $100,000; William B. Thompson, $30,000, and J. D. Perry Francis, $5000.

Assessor Brinkop last year increased the personal assessment of St. Louis $16,893,850. The amount represented by the seven taxpayers who have asked for a separation of their tax bills is approximately 20 per cent of the entire increase.

Doubled It as a Penalty.

Francis, Scullin and several other St. Louis millionaires, refused to make personal tax returns upon the demand of the assessor, and he made the assessment, and then doubled it as a penalty for their refusing to comply with the law. He also had Francis and others arrested, but they were acquitted in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Adolphus Busch, whose personal assessment was fixed at $2,000,000 by Assessor Brinkop, has paid his taxes on that amount. James Campbell paid taxes on personal assessment of $2,700,000. Alfred Clifford paid on $394,700, and James H. Allen on $240,050.

Increase in Tax Requests.

There were on file in the offices of the Comptroller and Collector, Feb. 1, 4857 requests for a separation of personal and real tax bills. The city officials charged with the duty of collecting the revenue anticipate that all of these persons will resist the collection of taxes on their personal assessments.

A year ago there were but 4007 applications for a separation of tax bills. The increase of 850 is believed to be due to the efforts of Assessor Brinkop to increase the assessments on personal property.

Examination did not indicate that he was much injured, and it was said Friday that he could return home in a day or two. He lived with his parents at 6128 Elizabeth avenue.

Beveridge Again Takes Up Attack on Senator Lorimer

there would have been a busy lot of men around there. The question I have tried in vain to get members of the committee to answer is what motive Meyers could have had in misrepresenting the facts."

"I apprehend that members declined to reply to the Senator's questions because they want him to get through, so that we may reach a vote," pointedly responded Gallinger.

Beveridge replied that it was more important to determine Meyers' motives than it would be to get a vote.

The colloquy between the two senators closed with an agreement that the entire record was one of "disgrace and infamy."

Evasion Is Charged.

Yesterday Senator Beveridge, charging that Lorimer, in his speech had evaded the point at issue as to whether his election was brought about by bribery and had discussed his case on other grounds, replied to the address by the Illinois member who is under fire.

Senator Beveridge said he had listened with interest to Lorimer's story of his rise from humble estate to this high office and that while he was affected, as a man, by that appeal, he could not but inquire as to why that was not recited to the Senate Committee, if it was considered at all material. He said that the conditions which preceded the election of Lorimer were interesting, as political history, but he could not see where they had any bearing on the question of alleged bribery.

"The issue we must determine," said Senator Beveridge, "is that of the validity of the election, challenged here on the ground of bribery. On that grave charge no light was thrown.

"So help me God, I wouldn't vote to sustain the election of my own brother under such circumstances as are here presented. The question is that of the welfare of a people, not a matter of sentiment—not a question of sentiment on the one hand or the other of those things with which rumor is rife and the press is full."

The galleries meanwhile had filled up and the sympathies of the crowd were plainly with Beveridge, and more than once, especially during a lively interchange with Senator Depew, his sallies elicited applause from the galleries, which was sharply rebuked by the presiding officer.

RECIPROCITY BILL IS BACK WITH NO RECOMMENDATION

Senate Finance Committee, by Vote of 7 to 6, Declines to Pass on Canadian Agreement and Returns Measure in Form in Which It Was Received.

CUMMINS ACCEPTS TAFT'S CHALLENGE

Iowa Insurgent to Oppose Arrangement Until Duty Reduction Is Provided on What the Farmer Must Purchase, as Well as Products He Sells.

Shall tariff reform be postponed until 1913?
Shall reduction of the cost of living be postponed until 1913?

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The McCall bill to carry out the provisions of the Canadian reciprocity agreement was reported to the Senate today from the Committee on Finance.

The report was "without recommendations," the committee by a vote of 6 to 7 refusing to report either favorably or adversely.

In his statement issued through Representative McCall last Sunday, President Taft put the responsibility of a nonacceptance of the Canadian reciprocity agreement on whoever in Congress should oppose it. Senator Cummins has accepted the challenge and shifted the responsibility back to the White House.

The Iowa Senator announced that he would promise amendments to the reciprocity arrangement extending the principle of reduction in the cost of living to its logical conclusion—a reduction of tariff on what the farmer buys, as well as what he sells.

Senator Hale, leader in the absence of Senator Aldrich, tried to force Senator Cummins into the position of being against the Canadian agreement in itself. Senator Hale, as a stand-patter, is against it because it provides for even a small measure of downward revision.

But Senator Cummins refused to take that position. He announced that he is for the agreement, if it also carries other provisions for downward revision.

The result of Senator Cummins' announcement will be that the reciprocity question will go over to the extra session to be convened about March 20, and it must then be passed again by the House. This the new House will do, but it also will pass on bills carrying reductions on the immediate cost of living generally. It is believed that Senator Cummins and the other Republican insurgents will accept these bills, in the place of amendments to the reciprocity agreement. In other words, if real reduction in the cost of living is framed in bills passed by the House, the Senate of the Sixty-second Congress will not molest the reciprocity arrangement.

Appeal Delayed for Fourth Time in New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The Republican minority in the Senate has succeeded again, for the fourth time, in delaying a vote on the Cuviller resolution urging President Taft to call an extra session of Congress to revise the tariff. Resorting to senatorial courtesy, Minority Leader Brackett again absented himself, after agreeing to be on hand.

The Republicans in the Senate believe that President Taft will call an extra session, and that by a little more delay the New York Democratic Legislature can be deprived of the credit of joining in the demands of other states for an extra session to take the tax from the necessaries of life.

Connecticut Expected to Revive Petition to Taft.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 24.—In the House Minority Leader Banks called from the table the resolution of Representative Peck of Redding to petition President Taft to convene Congress in special session to revise the tariff downward, and had it postponed indefinitely.

When some of the members discovered they had acted against their real inclinations, because of a parliamentary tangle, it was determined to have the motion for indefinite postponement reconsidered today.

JURY FINDS THE GIRL WITH CAT'S EYE NOT GUILTY

Nineteen Ballots Taken by Twelve Men Before a Verdict Is Reached.

WITNESSES TOO POSITIVE

So Sure of Identification That the Jurors Were Not Satisfied With Testimony.

Lillian McDowell, "the girl with the cat's eye," was found not guilty of robbing H. Chouteau Dyer's Lenox place home of jewelry valued at $6000.

The verdict was returned, sealed, at 9 p. m. Thursday, and was opened when Judge Taylor convened court Friday morning at 10 a. m. It was learned that 20 ballots were taken.

The woman merely sank deeper into her chair when the jury's verdict acquitting her was read. A few seconds later she resumed her original position, and turning stiffly to her junior counsel, Roy Fish, asked him in a whisper to thank the jury. He did so, thanking each of the 12 men individually.

The case against the young woman was wholly circumstantial, but the point on which the jury finally determined that she was innocent was the fact that witnesses were too positive in her identification.

Dyer testified to but two occasions when he remembered seeing Clara Stratton after she was employed as a maid in his home, but he was positive, after three years and a half, that the accused woman was the maid.

The jury thought the identification by Miss Louise Ricker, governess in the Dyer home, was weakened by her statement that she had never in her life been mistaken in recognizing a face.

First Ballot 6 to 6.

On the first ballot, it was learned at the Four Courts, the vote stood six to six. After that 19 ballots were taken at frequent intervals, the jurors in the intervals discussing the testimony.

Those who had voted at first for acquittal argued that even were it established that Lillian McDowell was Clara Stratton, no one had seen her take the jewels, and there was no proof that she had them at any time in her possession, since they were not recovered. The case against her, they pointed out, was wholly circumstantial, even admitting identification. These arguments finally won over the others.

Lillian McDowell has been identified also as the maid who robbed Joseph M. Hayes' home at 4389 Lindell boulevard of jewelry valued at $2000, and she is under charges in other cities.

The case against her on the Hayes charge will be nolle prosequied, since the Circuit Attorney's office does not regard the evidence in it as any stronger than in the Dyer case, and the young woman probably will be sent next to Chicago for trial.

Has Peculiar Eyes.

Lillian McDowell got her nickname from a defect in her left eye—a yellowish bar athwart the iris, which gave it an odd cast. It was this peculiarity, the witnesses who identified her said, which helped make them positive they were not mistaken.

BOY CHIEF WITNESS FAILS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 24.—Although a good witness before the grand jury, Charles Carue, aged 8, became frightened in court here yesterday and refused to testify. As a result, Julian Belair, charged with robbing a railroad ticket office, was acquitted on instructions from the court.

The boy, called to the witness stand as the chief witness for the prosecution, pulled his cap down over his eyes. The Court and the District Attorney did all in their power to induce him to talk, but without result.

CHIEF PARKER DIED POSSESSED OF RICHES

He Gave Up Fighting the White Man in 1874, When He Surrendered.

ANADARKO, Ok., Feb. 24.—Quanah Parker, chief of the Comanche Indians, who died here yesterday, was a noted leader of his people and a brave fighter. In 1874, he saw that it was useless for his tribe to make attacks on the whites, so they went to Fort Sill and surrendered to Gen. MacKenzie.

It was discovered then that his mother was a white woman, who had been stolen when only 7 years old, in a raid led by Quanah's father.

His sound judgment, thrift and common sense brought him wealth and he died possessed of considerable property.

CAPITOL SITE OFFERED

Realty Man Also Tenders $200,000 for Improvements.

An offer of 20 acres of land west of Clayton for a capitol site, and $300,000 for improvements, has been offered by James J. Quinn, a real estate operator, through his attorney, William R. Scullin. The exact location of the proffered site is not given, but the statement is made that the details will be submitted by Quinn if he is assured that his offer will receive consideration.

Quinn suggests that the district surrounding the capitol, if accepted, be restricted to residences or business buildings of not less than two nor more than four stories in height. He suggests that blocks be 600 feet square, divided by wide streets, and that buildings be set back 20 feet from the street line. The suggestion also is made that the railroads build depots at the four corners of the new city to create a uniform traffic to and from the capitol.

ST. LOUISANS AID SHIPPERS TO WIN

Business Men's League Representatives Credited With Big Share in Victory

The Business Men's League of St. Louis took a prominent part in the rates investigation, which has resulted in a sweeping victory for the shippers. Its representatives appeared for St. Louis at the hearings in New York and Washington.

The brief it filed was prepared by Bryan & Christie, its counsel, and Harold R. Small, special counsel, and was regarded as one of the most effective filed for the shippers.

The proposed advance in rates was demonstrated by the league to be a widening of the present gap between carload and less-than-carload rates.

It was argued that there was no justification for the proposed relative increase in rates on less-than-carload shipments.

The part taken by the league, under the direction of P. W. Coyle, its traffic commissioner, according to traffic experts, had much to do with the conclusion reached by the commission.

APPEAL TO NEW COURT IN RATE CASE EXPECTED

Railroad Officials Will Decide Whether to Invoke Commerce Tribunal.

SHIPPERS' BIG VICTORY

St. Louis Business Men's League Had Prominent Part in Successful Plea.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Many diverse opinions are expressed in Wall street as to the effect of the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision denying the request of the railroads for authorization of a general increase in freight rates.

While the heavy slump in the stock market today was not a surprise, a number of financiers pronounced it to be their opinion that the lines would soon adjust themselves to the problem of making needed improvements at present rates, and that the country's transportation system would not suffer serious or lasting damage.

A meeting in this city of the executive officers and general counsel of the railroads in the official classification territory has been called for Monday to determine what action shall be taken by the railroads in regard to the rate decision. An appeal to the new Commerce Court, which was created to hear appeals from the commission, is considered likely.

The consensus of opinion is that the decision will cause no interruption of the railroads' prosperity, and that it will not interfere with any financial plans they may have or with their present rate of dividends.

A Post-Dispatch correspondent read the decision to Washington E. Conner, the banker, who was intimately associated with the late Jay Gould in his railroad operations, and who sold the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad to the Wabash interests.

"I do not believe that the decision will have any effect whatever on railroad prosperity," he said. "The rates have been suspended since last summer and the common carriers have suffered no hardships. As a matter of fact, under the existing rules all the railroads of the country are showing satisfactory earnings, and there is no doubt they will be able to continue their dividends on the present basis. The general business of the country is showing steady improvement, and the railroads will get the benefit of this improvement in the increased tonnage and a corresponding increase in their earnings. I see no reason for anybody to be disturbed over the decision."

Efficiency Plan Needed.

President William H. Truesdale of the Lackawanna expressed great interest, but said: "For the present I do not care to discuss it for publication."

"As I see it, there is only one thing for us to do, and that is to put into practice the Brandeis greater efficiency system," declared President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. "There are only two ways that we can reduce expenses—and we will have to reduce expenses—and they are to buy less material and pay less for what we get."

"Will the decision effect a curtailment in your plans for improvements?"

"Yes, I should say it will. We can't expect so large a revenue with which to go ahead."

SWEEPING DEFEAT FOR 200 ROADS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision, handed down yesterday afternoon, is a general denial of the right of the railroads of the United States to charge higher freight rates. The only exception is a slight increase allowed to the Southwestern lines on some classes of goods from St. Louis to Texas points.

The increase authorized in the St. Louis to Texas rate was from $1.37 to $1.47 first class, and from $1.21 to $1.25 second class. These increases apply also to traffic between Texas and points north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi.

So sweeping is the decision, in comparison with this lone concession, that it is generally regarded by the railroads as a complete defeat in the campaign which they have conducted for months.

More than 200 railroads requested permission for the increase. In fact, they published tariffs putting the new rates into effect, but suspended the new rates "voluntarily," after application had been made to the Federal Court in St. Louis for a mandamus as to the Western lines.

"We need the money," was the plea, as summarized by Commissioner Lane, which the roads made to the commission for the desired new tariffs. Each told a somewhat different story, and exigencies of every sort known to railroad finance were rehearsed in the effort to convince the commissioners that the public should pay more for freight service.

These arguments evidently had little weight against the fact, shown by the commission's inquiries, that, as Lane expresses it, the roads have made more money in the last six months than ever before in their history.

To quote further from the opinion written by Commissioner Lane in the Western case: "At no time have American railroads yielded such profits, or was their prospect more fair than in the fiscal year that closed June 30, 1910. It was in that very month that the carriers of Western trunk line territory filed their tariffs increasing their rates upon a number of important articles of commerce.

"The primary impression of the commission was that these increased rates were impelled by the 'higher cost of living' to the railroads, that they were merely the outgrowth of the increased cost of supplies, fuel and labor, but no sooner was the investigation under way than these matters were entirely subordinated. It became manifest that the purpose of the carriers was not so much to obtain the approval of these specific rates as to discover the mind of the commission with respect to the policy which the carriers might in future pursue, and to obtain if possible some commitment on our part as to a nationwide policy which would give the carriers a loose rein."

Fruit of Competition.

Referring to the opening sentence of the brief of the Santa Fe Co., Commissioner Lane says: "The full significance of the sentence, 'That American railway rates have never been high enough and the public has never paid adequately for the service which it has received,' cannot be appreciated until one stops to think that for nearly 75 years after the first railroad was built the American Government did not choose to exercise the power of regulating the charges of interstate railroads. These carriers, charged with a public trust, were given a free hand in the institution of own rates, until within the last four years, and they now appear asking the protection of the law to increase their rates which under the play of economic forces they say have never been high enough. Throughout this record it appears that a literary campaign has been conducted by the use of railroad money with the manifest purpose of establishing both at home and abroad the impression that the effect of every regulation in the United States is injurious to the American railroad.

"President Ripley of the Santa Fe, when asked if, in his opinion, the result of operating railroads without regulation had resulted in not making a proper return to the carriers, answered the commission emphatically while on the stand: "'I do.'

"'And now that we have the regulation, rates should be put upon a paying basis—is that you opinion?' he was asked.

"To this, President Ripley answered 'yes.'

"Could there be any position less reasonable than to cry out against restrictive legislation and in the same breath ask benefits under this legislation which never were, and admittedly never could, have been won in the open field of unlimited competition?

"Whatever of doubt has arisen in the public mind respecting the value of our railroad securities has come, we are convinced rather from the too reckless policy of stock manipulators parading under the title of financiers than from any course of governmental policy on the part of the American people.

Rates Not Scientific.

In his elaborate discussion of the Eastern case, Commissioner Prouty says that the railroad rates of this country have not been constructed as a rule upon any scientific basis, especially the interstate rates.

He points out that the rates have been put into effect without special inquiry as to the amount of revenue they might produce or as to the burden the particular commodity affected by the rate ought to bear.

"It might not follow," the decision says, "that even were we of the opinion that these carriers were entitled to additional revenue that they ought to obtain it from an advance of these particular rates."

It is laid down as a principle that "no general advance in rates should be permitted until carriers have exhausted every reasonable effort toward economy in their business," and the opinion is expressed that railroads have not given to this subject the attention which it deserves.

In the Western case, the carriers entered a powerful plea for increased revenue, in order that they might have additional money to put into improvements and betterments which would enable them to handle with greater facility the constantly increasing traffic of the country. The same argument was advanced in support of the proposed advances in official classification territory, but Commissioner Prouty says:

"This argument does not appeal to us. We doubt the practical difficulty suggested (that of obtaining by loan sufficient money to finance the roads), and were it true, it is not apparent that the general public should stand responsible for the mistakes which have been made in financing these railroad systems."

The carriers in both cases are required to cancel on or before March 10, their advanced tariffs and restore their former rates, which are the rates now in effect. If this requirement be not complied with the commission will issue a formal order suspending the proposed advances, and putting into effect the existing rates for at least two years.

BAER FEARS THAT PUBLIC WILL LOSE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad and of the Central of New Jersey, in an authorized statement given out today, expresses great surprise at the rate decision. He says there will be a curtailment of railroad expenditures and states that "if the result shall be to bring about a general reduction in wages and in material and supplies, in the end the railroads will suffer no more than the general public."

"It seems to me," he says, "that the commission has not given due weight to the fact that the prosperity of transportation companies is essential to the normal development of the country.

"I am a firm believer that economic laws in the end will prevail. The railroads cannot successfully operate their lines without sufficient revenue to enable them to meet public requirements for transportation, which in this country have been in excess of any other country.

For Men!

The Men's Store is proving a splendid success.

Those who said a department store couldn't draw the men's trade, even though it had a separate "Men's Store," will have to admit they were wrong.

Of course, up to this time the men were well repaid for coming. The sale of The Model stocks brought remarkable bargains in "men's lines." But the general service is going to be so good that you'll like the Men's Store better and better.

You'll find the "Men's Store" "up" on the new styles, and the "atmosphere" is going to be so mannish that you'll be glad to come here for your Spring clothes.

BALDWIN ON STAGE DEFENDS DR. COOK

Both Denounce Peary to Enthusiastic Audience at Des Moines, Ia.

DES MOINES, Io., Feb. 24.—Capt. Evelyn Baldwin, the Arctic explorer, vigorously defended Frederick A. Cook as the original North Pole discoverer in an address under the auspices of the Press Club of Des Moines last night. Dr. Cook, who opened his Western lecture tour under the same auspices, received applause when he denounced Peary as a coward in having wrongfully claimed the honor of being the "first at the North Pole."

It was Capt. Baldwin's first appearance in behalf of Dr. Cook on a lecture platform. He read from the recently published Peary narrative and sought to prove by the physical facts that Cook was at the boreal center 11 months before Peary hit that region. He declared that the simple examination of the narratives of both explorers was sufficient to demonstrate Cook's veracity and vindicate his honor.

Milford's Restaurant, 207 N. 6th; noted for fish and oysters. Dinner (a la carte) served.

CROWDS SEE THE NEW HAREM SKIRT

"It doesn't look like pants. I would as soon wear that as a hobble," was the opinion of one of the hundreds of women—and men—who saw the harem skirt being demonstrated by a living model in the big window of Schaper Bros. on Eighth street and Washington avenue.

The corner has been blocked for the last three days while Miss Margaret Reenan, the model, gracefully walks up and down inside the show window in the latest of fashion's fancy.

The harem skirt and little coat to go with it are of drab English thread.

No one would know at first glance that the skirt was cut differently from any other tailored skirt.

The bifurcation extends only to the knees and the panel. A part of the skirt to the knees is loose from there down.

TWO AMERICANS HELD IN JUAREZ AS INSURRECTOS

Edward Blatt and Lawrence Converse Kept Incommunicado as Rebel Aids.

MOTHER GOES TO SCENE

Father of Other Wires to Secretary Knox Begging for Intervention.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 24.—The crew of a work train which reached Juarez over the Mexican Central early this morning report that Col. Rabago arrived at Lucero, 69 miles south of Juarez, at midnight. He found the bridge over a shallow stream destroyed at that point and a freight engine in the stream. The track is badly torn up.

Rabago is said to have detrained at Lucero.

Madero is reported only 18 miles distant, and a fight seems imminent some time today.

Gen. Navarro is reported in Juarez with the remainder of his command.

Lawrence Converse and Edward M. Blatt, the two young American insurrectos captured by Navarro, are held incommunicado in Juarez. The United States Consul says he can do nothing for them, and they will have to stand trial.

Gen. Navarro says the young men told him when captured that they had left the insurrectos on account of cruel treatment, and were returning to the United States.

Mother Going to Juarez to Plead for Converse.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 24.—"I will save my boy if I have to go to Mexico City and go upon my knees before President Diaz," said Mrs. Flora Converse on her departure for Juarez, Mexico, today.

When informed that Lawrence Converse, her 21-year-old son, had been arrested while bearing arms against a foreign government and faced punishment, as a rebel, Mrs. Converse made hurried preparations for her departure. Before this, she telegraphed the United States Consul at Juarez to engage counsel to represent her son until his father, Charles H. Converse, an attorney, who has been in Lewiston, Ill., arrives.

Blatt's Father Wires Secretary Knox for Help.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—Peter Blatt, retired wagon manufacturer, telegraphed Secretary of State Knox last night asking that the Government intercede with the Mexican Government on behalf of his son, Edward M. Blatt, arrested while bearing arms in the insurrection.

In his last letter to his parents, Blatt said he was leaving El Paso to join the insurrectos party because he sympathized with them, and as a news scout for newspaper correspondents.

Blatt has had a checkered career. After studying a year for the priesthood he took up law, then became a street car conductor.

SKIN DISEASES

HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

Nature has made ample provision in the moisture and sunshine of the air for the outward protection and healthy condition of the skin. But the more important work of nourishing the cuticle has been left to an inward source—the blood. It is from the circulation that the pores and glands receive their stimulus, and the fibrous tissues are all preserved in a healthful state because of constant nutriment supplied by the blood. It is only when the circulation becomes infected with humors or acids that we are troubled with skin affections. The humors producing these troubles are carried through the circulation direct to the skin, and their irritating or inflammatory effect remains until the blood is cleansed. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases, because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation and REMOVES the acids and humors which are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, rashes, and all eruptions on the skin. When S. S. S. has driven out the humors the skin is again nourished with cooling, healthful blood, natural evaporation is renewed, and the skin becomes soft and smooth. Want to Feel Young?

It's Olive Tablets For You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, especially in old people, unless you take yourself in hand.

Coax the jaded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistency and Nature's assistance.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Try Olive Tablets and have no trouble with your bowels or stomach.

All druggists sell them in neat pocket packages—15 tablets for 10c, 45 tablets for 25c.

Made by the Olive Tablet Company of Portsmouth, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, President. (33)

Ohio Senators Want to Fight.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 24.—A near-riot was participated on the floor of the Senate last night as a result of the action of the president pro tem, Senator Stockwell, in declaring the Senate adjourned. He was surrounded immediately by indignant senators, who protested against the forced adjournment.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

If you feel exhausted and weak or tire easily, don't try to brace up on liquor or some patent medicine that will produce the same effect.

It is only temporary, and the reaction leaves you in worse shape than before.

What you want is more strength. Father John's Medicine is a pure food medicine; its ingredients are nourishing and strengthening. Nothing equals it as a tonic and body builder for all throat and lung troubles.

Contains no alcohol or injurious drugs. Get a bottle today; it will make you strong. Remember, it has been in use fifty years.

SUFFRAGE IS CALLED SUCCESS IN COLORADO

Former Governor Thomas Doubts if It Will Be Universally Adopted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Former Gov. Charles S. Thomas of Colorado is in New York this week, brought here by the Woman's Suffrage League for a series of addresses in support of votes for women. He declares that woman's suffrage has worked well in Colorado.

"I look at it," he says, "from a practical standpoint and while it has not revolutionized the world, it has done a great deal of good. If universally adopted, it would accomplish a great deal, but I don't think that condition will ever arrive.

"The women voters and office holders have raised the political and social level of Colorado and in our conventions it has been remarked that the scurrilous talk of former days has gone and a certain class of professional politicians can no longer run for office. The women study political conditions and some of the best arguments I have ever heard on the tariff have been made by women."

TROLL IS BACKING FOUR MEN FOR THE HOUSE, SAYS KIEL

Two Saloon Keepers and Pretzel Manufacturer Named as Three of His Candidates.

FIVE FIGHTS IN PRIMARY

Kreismann Man Opposed by Labor Leader in Tenth; Tailor Runs in Thirteenth.

Charles (Cap) Troll is backing four Republican candidates for the House of Delegates, according to Henry W. Kiel, chairman of the Republican City Committee. Kiel declared to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday trat Troll was behind Herman Gevers, a saloon keeper and former member of the House combine, Third Ward; Benjamin J. Sacks, Fifth Ward; August Giegerich, pretzel manufacturer, Eighth Ward, and John H. Becker, saloon keeper, Ninth Ward.

Troll has served several terms in the House of Delegates, and was always rated as an active combine man. In the Fifth Ward the Kiel faction of the committee, headed by E. H. Loffhagen, Justice Robert A. Walker and former Committeeman Stinebaker, is making a fight against the Troll candidate, Loffhagen, Walker and Stinebaker are supporting Alexander A. Smith, president of the A. Smith Furniture Co. In the other wards the Troll candidates have no opposition. These wards are heavily Republican. The Troll men were put up by members of the committee belonging to the Kreismann-Rombauer-Howe faction.

Fight on Laxton's Candidate.

There will be at least five contests for the House of Delegates nominations in the primaries next Tuesday. The Kiel men, besides making a determined fight to overthrow the Troll candidate in the Fifth Ward, represented by Committeeman Hillman, a Kreismann follower, are going to make a strong fight to defeat Committeeman Laxton's candidate in the Twenty-seventh Ward. Laxton, a Kreismann man, is backing Albert Rabbeneck, a plumber. The Kiel men are supporting Jesse M. Barrett, a hardware merchant.

In the Tenth Ward Committeeman Meisinger, a Kreismann man, is backing Delegate George Eigel for renomination. The Kiel faction is supporting John Rassfeld, a labor leader.

Trying to Unhorse Schmoll.

In the Thirteenth Ward the Rombauer-Kreismann faction is trying to unhorse Committeeman John Schmoll, a business associate of Kiel, by throwing its support to Louis Busch, a tailor. Schmoll is leading the fight for Jacob F. Liendecker, a real estate man.

In the Twenty-first Ward Sam B. Stannard is trying to regain power by supporting William H. Walters for the House of Delegates. Herman Bader, the committeeman, who is with Kiel, is backing Nathan H. Hall, an optician and former newspaper writer.

In the Twenty-fifth Ward there are three administration candidates, Barney Schwartz, a lawyer; R. Lee Orcutt, storage, and Eugene Hale, lawyer.

HAS STOOD 9 YEARS IN THEATER LINE

Man Who Has Spent $20,000 for Tickets Never Saw Show.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Thomas L. Harding is a messenger "boy," aged 48 years. For more than fifteen years he has been wearing the blue uniform and the A. D. T. shield of service. He looks his age, has a mustache and wears spectacles, but otherwise he is a regular Mercury.

In all his years his principal duty has been to buy theater tickets for persons who do not want to stand in line. He has bought for others at least $20,000 worth of theater tickets, but has never been inside of a playhouse. The neasest approach he has ever made was a box office and he always had to stand in line to get there. Harding calculates that in the 15 years he has been a messenger boy he has spent at least nine years of the time standing in ticket-buying lines.

PAYS $1004 FOR $4 LOAN

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Feb. 24.—Showing his gratitude for the loan of $4 when he needed it, D. J. Quillan, an actor, returned it today with $1000 interest. The money was borrowed last September from the local lodge of the Knights of Columbus.

Quillan, stranded here, wanted to join his company at Grand Island, 150 miles away. He applied to F. T. Redmond, presiding officer of the lodge, and his request for a loan was granted. Nothing further was heard of it until a draft was received today for $1004, with a request that the money be used for the good of the order.

Ball Pitcher Surrenders as Mayhray Suspect.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 24.—R. L. Thielman, accused of complicity in the operations of the Mayhray gang of prize-fight swindlers, who escaped from a deputy United States Marshal here last June, returned from New York today and surrendered. Thielman, who is under indictment, was once a well-known professional baseball pitcher.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. Herman Sieth, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from fibroid tumors, backache, headache, sleeplessness, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn., Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

MERCHANTS ARE SWAMPED BY RUSH OF ORDERS

Wholesale Trade in St. Louis Increased One-Third This Season Over Last in All Lines, but Especially in Women's Ready-to-Wear Goods.

VISITORS PRAISE THE DEPARTMENT STORES

They Get Ideas From Them and Know Just What to Buy—Like to Trade Here Better Than in Chicago or New York.

The wholesale spring trade in St. Louis is one-third larger this season than the same period last year according to merchants. Thousands of dealers in the South and Southwest trade territory are in St. Louis selecting their spring stocks. They are buying a better class of goods, and seem more confident of the demand for high grade goods in their localities than for several years.

Visiting merchants say there are several reasons why St. Louis is a great distributing center. They declare that the department stores here are a continuous Exposition to out-of-town merchants, and form one of the drawing cards that bring much of the wholesale business to this city.

Buyers Seek Ideas.

Many of the tradesmen visit the large stores to get ideas on styles and trade demands before purchasing their spring stocks at wholesale houses.

The merchants of the South and Southwest say that St. Louis is more easily reached than either Kansas City, Chicago or Memphis. St. Louis prices are as low as any other market, they say, and the transportation facilities for the delivery of goods is excellent. Freight rates are a little cheaper from Memphis to their points than from St. Louis, but St. Louis prices are a shade cheaper and there is a larger and more varied line to choose from, the merchants say. Freight rates are cheaper from St. Louis than Kansas City to Southern points, and the delivery is much more satisfactory, according to the out-of-town dealers.

The reputation of St. Louis wholesalers in the manufacture of women's ready-to-wear goods has placed this market in the top list in that line, as shown by the spring trade in suits, skirts, etc., which is larger this season than ever before.

More Varied Offerings.

The increase in the wholesale trade of St. Louis has resulted in competition and more varied offerings. In almost every line, wholesale merchants from New York and Chicago have representatives here with a full line of samples. This enables the visiting merchant to make purchases for his entire store in St. Louis, and makes this market the real center of the Central West, South and Southwest trade districts.

S. H. Floyd, part owner of three department stores in Mississippi, at Meridian, Laurel and Alberta, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that merchants of the South and Southwest can come nearer purchasing the entire lines they need in St. Louis than any other market in the United States.

"St. Louis wholesale dealers seem to know what we need, and they manufacture it," he said. "Good transportation facilities, good service, and quick deliveries are also factors in bringing St. Louis to the front as a wholesale market. The hotel accomodations in St. Louis can hardly be excelled, and the visit to this city is made pleasant.

Market Is Growing.

"The growth of the St. Louis market has brought competition, so that now it is possible for a large merchant to stock his entire stores here. The New York and Eastern houses have representatives and samples here, and it is not necessary to go to New York or Chicago to fill out a stock. These are important advantages to the out-of-town merchant.

"The fine department stores of St. Louis are of educational value to the visiting merchants. We can visit these stores and get ideas of demand and styles by comparison before we purchase our stock. The St. Louis market is rapidly climbing to the top."

A. T. Sparks, a member of the Crossett Mercantile Co., at Crossett, Ark. said that St. Louis wholesale merchants are more nearly in touch with the needs and demands of the merchants of Southern states than any other market.

"This is the best market in the country for the goods we handle," he explained. "The prices here are equally as low as in Chicago or New York, and the freight rates are lower to Southwestern points than from the other large markets. The delivery service is better because it is more direct. The rates from Memphis are lower, but the selection of goods is not so large and the prices in Memphis are a shade higher than in St. Louis. Kansas City is too far out of the way to be easy of access to us, or insure quick delivery."

Big Business for Year.

S. Bertig, who is interested in six department stores in Arkansas, at Blytheville, Piggott, Marmaduke, Wallcott and Paragould, spent two weeks in New York and then came to St. Louis and bought most of his goods for his stores. He says he does a business of approximately $400,000 a year in the store at Paragould.

"The St. Louis market has a great future. I find that cheaper freight rates and quicker deliveries from St. Louis to our points make it an advantage to buy here, instead of going to Eastern cities further from home.

"The prices in St. Louis are equally as low as in Eastern markets, and it is possible to purchase our entire needs right here. In women's ready-to-wear goods St. Louis is rapidly coming to the front. These goods offered here are now equal to those carried in any city in the United States."

B. A. Shelby, president of the St. Louis Sales Managers' Association and manager of a Southern department for the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that the wholesale trade in St. Louis this year was the largest in several years. The purchases of ready-to-wear garments for women is by far the largest this market has ever had, he declared.

Coming to the Front.

"Until the last 18 months, St. Louis has never been in the top list as manufacturers of women's ready-to-wear garments," he said. "This season St. Louis has come into her own, and the reputation of St. Louis-made ready-to-wear goods has placed this city among the best markets of the country in that line. Heretofore most of that class of goods was bought in New York and Chicago. This season the wholesale merchants are unexpectedly swamped with orders in this line.

"Merchants from the South and Southwest who are now crowding the houses in the wholesale district in making spring purchases are in better humor than for several years. They seem to be prospering. They have confidence in the demand for high-class goods in their localities at good prices.

"St. Louis wholesale houses have better open stocks of general merchandise, and larger and more varied lines than ever before, and carry goods better adapted to the trade of the South and Southwest than any other market in the United States.

Best of Goods Wanted.

"Of late years the out-of-town merchants came to St. Louis each season and bought sparingly in the various lines. This year many are accompanied by their wives, milliners, and some bring heads of departments in their stores to assist in making purchases. They want better goods than before, and by more of them."

This week and next are the heaviest of the spring buying season. The goods now being sold are for immediate delivery for the spring season in the Southern States. About two weeks later the rush of merchants from Missouri and Central Western States will begin, in preparation for their spring displays.

ASSMAN IS AFTER NEW BALLOON MARK

St. Louisan and O'Reilly Start Today From San Antonio With Week's Provisions.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 24.—Wind and weather being favorable, the big racing balloon Miss Sofia will start today with William F. Assmann and J. M. O'Reilly of St. Louis aboard, in an effort to capture the Lahm cup and establish a new record for distance. Assmann is a member of the Aero Club of St. Louis. O'Reilly, who goes as aid, is an experienced balloonist.

The Miss Sofia holds 80,000 cubic feet of gas and has a carrying capacity of more than three tons. Two thousand pounds of sand will be carried as ballast. The balloon will be equipped with a week's provisions.

HARLAN OWES $1000 BORROWED TO MARRY

Like Other Supreme Court Justices, He's Too Poor to Buy Own Painted Portrait.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Albert Rosenthal, Philadelphia artist, has partly completed a collection of paintings of former members of the supreme bench and has offered to sell the collection to Congress. He appeared before a House committee and was asked if he had made any paintings at the personal solicitation of justices.

"I have not been paid by any of them," said Rosenthal. "They all told me they were too poor to buy them. Justice Harlan said: 'I would like to have that portrait. I borrowed $1000 when I was married, and every year since, when I fix up my accounts for the year, I find I still owe that $1000.' Justice McKenna wanted to buy the portrait of himself but the price was too high."

The Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court receives a salary of $13,000, and the associate justices $12,500 each.

The portrait of Justice Moody was outlined by Rosenthal before the retired Justice shaved off his mustache. Now there is some question whether the portrait with the mustache will be a proper likeness in the Supreme Court galleries.

MERCY! AWFUL BATTLE FOUGHT IN THE HOUSE

Lie Passed, Alaskan Shoots Out His Fist, Antagonist Tries to Hurl Chair.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—A bloodless battle was fought in the House late yesterday during debate on a bill for leasing coal lands in Alaska. The lie was passed. Delegate James Wickersham of Alaska rushed for Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming.

The Alaskan's right fist shot out twice, but members surrounded the disputants and both blows fell short. The House was in an uproar. Members hurled themselves on Wickersham; others struggled with Mondell.

Foster of Vermont took Wickersham by the throat. This diverted the delegate's attack towards the peacemaker. Sisson of Mississippi stopped Mondell from hurling his chair at his antagonist. A hundred members crowded about the struggling legislators, while Olmstead of Pennsylvania, acting as speaker, belabored his desk with the gavel and called upon the sergeant-at-arms.

The historic mace of the House, emblem of authority, was lifted from its marble pedestal and carried to the floor. Members had, however, brought about a cessation of hostilities.

A GENEROUS OFFER

To Whom It May Concern.

There are hundreds of people in this vicinity at this season of the year who need a blood-making, body-building and strength-creating tonic. It is to all such, which comprise old people, delicate children, the weak, run-down and convalescents, and all those who suffer from chronic coughs and colds, that we ask to come to our store and get a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil).

If it fails to build you up, create strength and restore normal health, we will cheerfully return the money paid us for it. We take all the chances—you take none. As a matter of fact, we don't take much chance either, because Vinol rarely disappoints us. Come in and get a bottle on these terms. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS REVOLVER EXPERT CHALLENGED

Chicagoan Sends Letter to Police Marksman Which Is Resented by Him.

Sergt. George H. Weideling of the Chicago police force has written a letter to Sergt. Sidney Sears, crackshot of the St. Louis department, which is intended as a challenge to a revolver contest, but Sears takes the letter as an insult. Weideling headed the Chicago police in a shooting tournament at Camp Ferry, O., last year.

Recently a morning paper printed a story to the effect that Sears had refused to accept a challenge from McCreary, the negro champion shot of the Pittsburg police, but Sears denies he received a challenge from McCreary.

"I would suggest you go get a reputation," Weideling writes. "Perhaps it would be well to start by shooting against the lowest man on our team, Patrolman James Farrell, whom you met at Camp Perry. Perhaps if you should defeat him you might get another match. At present I do not consider you in my class."

Sears showed the missive to other policemen in Central District and they are planning to back Sears against Weideling for any stakes.

9 ORGANIZATIONS OPPOSE FRANCHISE FOR FREE BRIDGE

Representatives of 3000 Property Owners Think City Should Delay Grant.

APPLICANT IS ATTACKED

Fact That It Is Outside Corporation and Might Gain Monopoly, Is Cited.

That St. Louis should not grant a franchise to any company to use the municipal free bridge until the spans are in and the rules and regulations to govern traffic over it have been made, is the unanimous opinion of committees from nine organizations which have an aggregate membership of 3000 business men and property owners of St. Louis.

These committees met Thursday afternoon in the directors' room of the Merchants' Exchange and adopted resolutions opposing the franchise asked for by the Southern Traction Co. of Illinois to lay tracks and operate cars over the municipal free bridge and several miles of streets approaching it. The resolutions called upon the Railroad Committee of the City Council to name a day for a public hearing on the franchise question.

Grant Is for Fifty Years.

The proposed franchise is for 50 years and the company is to pay to the city $6500 a year for the streets which it uses and not more than $20,000 a year for the use of the bridge.

The franchise has passed the House of Delegates and is pending before the Council. It will have its first reading in that body Friday night, its second reading next Tuesday night and will then be referred to the Railroad Committee.

Every speaker, except one, at the meeting declared that to grant a franchise now, when the piers were not finished, would be premature, because after the bridge was finished and it was decided what would be the rules of its operation, other public utilities probably would apply for franchises and it would be soon enough then for the city to decide what it should do.

F. H. Gerhart of the Real Estate Exchange pointed out some of the evil features of the franchise. It was asked for by a non-resident company, incorporated under the laws of Illinois, therefore St. Louis would have no jurisdiction over it beyond the center of the bridge, except by going into the Federal court, but the company would be entitled to all its rights granted under the laws of Illinois, which in many respects were different from those of Missouri.

Large Powers Are Granted.

The franchise, he said, permitted the company to use any sort of power it wished. It could do an express business, which meant a general freight business. Its charges for passengers was 5 cents for merely crossing the bridge, while the McKinley system carried passengers eight miles, from Twelfth street and Lucas avenue, to any part of Granite City for 5 cents.

After the franchise was granted the Terminal Railway Association could buy its stock, he said, and thus force all trains to use the Union Station and keep out competition, especially the Vandalia, which might wish to put a large depot near the approach of the bridge.

The company asking the franchise, he said, was a paper company, it had no railroad tracks in operation at all, but had a short piece of track in Belleville and another in East St. Louis, laid to hold its right of way there. The company compared itself to the McKinley system, but that company built its own bridge and had 500 miles of track in operation.

J. D. Reifling of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association, said it would be folly for St. Louis to give away the exclusive right to use the bridge at this time. He thought it ought to be known who was behind this franchise.

C. A. Rule, president of the Real Estate Exchange, said that he was personally opposed to the granting of a franchise to any company until the bridge was finished.

President Garneau of the Merchants' Exchange; F. C. Bonsack, A. D. Cunningham, C. M. Cherry and C. J. Chaffe of the East End Improvement Association; John E. Monan, president of the Tower Grove Citizens' Association, D. R. O'Donnell of the Mill Creek Improvement Association, O. J. Gossrau of the Southwestern Mercantile Association, E. F. Morris of the North End Realty Association and C. W. Rutledge of the Tower Grove Heights Association spoke against the franchise.

The only man who spoke in favor of it was J. V. S. Barrett, who owns property along Third street, that he thought would be benefited by the franchise.

VETERANS — ATTENTION!

If You Served With Warnecker, Write to His Wife.

Mrs. Philippine Warnecker cannot claim a pension as widow of a Civil War soldier because she cannot find a veteran who served with her husband, August Warnecker, at Camp Jackson.

She has asked the Post-Dispatch to aid her by publishing her request that any old soldier who knew her husband communicate with her at her home, 1443 Dodier street.

Warnecker, she says, became insane shortly before he died and tore up his army discharge papers.

13 MERCHANTS ARE OPPOSED TO NEW BOULEVARD

They Begin Fight Against Diagonal Cut at Channing Avenue and Olive Street.

OFFER SEVEN REASONS

They Advocate the Widening of Compton or Cardinal Avenues Instead.

Thirteen business men who own property on Olive street, Leonard and Channing avenues, are opposing the purchase of a roadway diagonally through that block so as to connect Locust street and Lindell avenue and Olive street. They will be represented at the hearing before the Public Improvemnts Committee of the House of Delegates at 4 p. m. Friday.

These objectors contend that one of the north and south streets farther east—Compton avenue or Cardinal avenue—should be widened between Locust street and Olive street to provide for the diversion of the traffic from Lindell avenue to Locust street.

Seven reasons for their opposition to the plan proposed in a pending ordinance are given by the 13 business men. They say that the acquisition of the roadway through the block between Leonard avenue, Channing avenue, Olive street and Locust street, would cost about $250,000; that the wrecking of buildings which occupy the ground would be an additional heavy expense; that the establishment and maintenance of a plaza or esplanade would be a large item; that the connection would converge the traffic of seven streets at a dangerous street railway crossing; that it would not be a natural channel for travel between Lindell avenue and Locust street and that this channel ought to be farther east, and that the junction at another point would be much more practical and cheap.

Those who signed the petition asking the House of Delegates to defeat the opening in the block between Locust, street, Channing avenue, Olive street and Leonard avenue, are Edward Bott, 3340 Olive street; Henry Roth, 3328 Olive street; August Fellhauer, 3315 Olive street; A. H. Gerhardt, 3324 Olive street; John H. Martin, 3342 Olive street; Oscar McKnight, Christ Kimling, 3327 Olive street; Charles W. Alban, 3333 Olive street; F. W. Scherrer, 3335 Olive street; Alfrezio V. Tonelli, 3319 Olive street; H. L. Brewster, 3302 Olive street; S. Kadoff, 3310 Olive street, and Henry Gerber, 3318 Olive street.

POLICEMAN CATCHES A 2 A. M. MASHER

Captured Through Ruse of Mrs. Barnes Who Was Returning From a Ball.

Mrs. Blanche Barnes of 1317 Blair avenue, leaving the Theatrical Brotherhood ball at the Coliseum at 2 a. m. Friday, met James (Paddy) O'Donnell of 2308 University street.

"Hello, kid," he said.

"Leave me alone; I'm going home," Mrs. Barnes retorted.

In causing O'Donnell's arrest later, Mrs. Barnes said he followed her and shoved her into a hallway on Morgan street, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, choked and mistreated her. By a ruse she got O'Donnell to wait while she went for a policeman. He fled as they returned, but was caught after a chase.

Child Runs Behind Curtains in Parlor and Mother Finds Her Just in Time.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Playing hide-and-seek in her home today while other rooms were on fire, Isabel Wade, 4 years old, caused her mother to rush through flames to save her.

"You can't find me," she shouted, and hid behind curtains in the parlor. Mrs. Wade did not find her until the fire ate its way into the room.

When the mother carried her to the street, Isabel clapped her hands and said, "You couldn't find me for a long time, could you, mamma?"

THOUGHT HE SHOULD GO MAD WITH ECZEMA

On Face and Scalp. Dry, Scaly, Itching and Burning. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and After a Few Days, Eczema Was Cured.

"I suffered from the early part of December until nearly the beginning of March with severe skin eruptions on my face and scalp. At first I treated it as a trivial matter. But after having used castile soap, medicated wash-rags, cold cream, vanishing cream, etc., I found no relief whatever. After that, I diagnosed my case as eczema, because of its dry, scaly appearance. The itching and burning of my scalp became so intense that I thought I should go mad, having not slept regularly for months past, only at intervals, waking up now and then because of the burning and itching of my skin. Having read different testimonials of cures by the Cuticura Remedies, I decided to purchase a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using them for a few days I recognized a marked change in my condition. I bought about two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and five cakes of Cuticura Soap in all, and after a few days I was entirely free from the itching and burning. My eczema was entirely cured, all due to using Cuticura Soap and Ointment daily. Hereafter I will never be without a cake of Cuticura Soap on my washstand. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from similar skin eruptions and hope you will publish my letter so that others may learn of Cuticura Remedies and be cured." REQUEST MADE TO EXHUME BODY OF POISONED BOY

Detectives Not Sure Whether Arsenic or Ptomaines Killed Ralph Schneider.

MYSTERY GROWS DEEPER

Deputy Coroner Believes There Is No Doubt That Drug Killed the Child.

A request that the Coroner exhume the body of 9-year-old Randolph Schneider, who died 10 days ago after eating rolled oats, will be made by detectives working on the case Friday. They want to determine whether the boy died from ptomaine or arsenical poisoning.

Deputy Coroner Fath said he did not know what action would be taken on the request.

"It seems hardly worth while to exhume the body and have chemical tests made of the viscera unless the detectives have some theory as to who is responsible for the death," he said. "The fact that chemical analysis of both the cooked oats and the carton containing the oats before they were cooked showed arsenic seems pretty strong proof that it was arsenic that killed the boy. The poison might have been put into the box after his death, but could hardly have been put into the cooked food; and the motive for putting it into either is doubtful."

Arsenic in Food.

In a detailed report to the Coroner's office Thursday afternoon, City Chemist Buckland showed that 16.408 grains of arsenic had been found on quantitative test of a bowl and cupful of cooked oats. The maximum medicinal dose for internal purposes is given in the United States Dispensatory, a standard work, as one-twentieth of a grain. One-sixteenth of a grain has been known to kill.

State Food Inspector Meyer delivered the box and bowlful of oats, and F. W. Lawson, editor of a grocer's publication, delivered the cupful. Assistant Chemist Moody made the tests. In the bowl was found .963 of a grain of arsenic; in the cup, 5.445 grains. Minute quantities of powder brushed from the inside of the box contained only a trace of the poison.

Has No Enemy.

The detectives arrived at their theory on Mrs. Schneider's statement that she had not seen a slit in the box before delivering it to the investigators. Buckland said the slit apparently was made with a sharp knife, and might readily have escaped notice on casual inspection. Mrs. Schneider declared that she had no enemy, that she had not said, as reported by the detectives at first, that some enemy had sprinkled ashes and red pepper on her doorstep to annoy her, and that she did not think there was any dust in the bottom of the carton when it left her hands.

Diligent inquiry in the neighborhood of the Schneider home, 3713 Thompson street, has revealed to the detectives no motive for killing the Schneider children or their parents, and they were reduced to these theories: That it was done unintentionally, the poison being intended for someone else; that it was the work of some demented person; or that the death actually was due to ptomaines and not to arsenic.

POLICEMAN KILLED WAS COLLEGE MAN

Slain by Bandits After Having Served in the Philippine Signal Corps.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 24.—Patrolman Davis, who was killed in a battle with John Ford and Axel Nist, highwaymen, last night, was a graduate of the Syracuse University. He had served four years in the United States Signal Corps in the Philippines and joined the Seattle police force in 1909.

He was born at Coran, N. Y., where Harold Davis, a brother, lives.

The police believe that Ford and Nist are responsible for the hold-ups that have occurred in Seattle in the last few days. The boldness of the crimes has caused a special detail of policemen to be sent into the residence sections.

Davis and Smith were members of this detail. Although Ford was shot above the heart and was pronounced fatally wounded by the hospital staff, he was alive early today. Nist will recover.

One Fish For 74 Fishers.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Only one fish was caught in a charity angling match at Gorleston, in which 74 persons took part. It was hooked on the line of a competitor who was absent temporarily, and was landed by another angler. Forty prizes were offered in connection with the match, which was declared off.

YANKEE HUSBAND A BAD BARGAIN, SIGHS CAVALIERI

Somebody Had Told Her (Ah, Cruel Deceit!) That Americans Were Nice.

Copyright, 1911, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 24.—"It is a blessing that I have my art, which provides the means to maintain me, for he has nothing but debts," explained Mme. Lina Cavalieri with philosophic resignation to the Post-Dispatch correspondent who called upon her today to inquire about the terms of the settlement she is reported to have made with Robert Winthrop Chanler.

Throughout the half hour's animated interview Mme. Cavalieri referred to her husband as "he," never speaking his christian name or his surname.

"Perhaps he will be found to be irresponsible; perhaps he will be put in an asylum," she said. "I see no likelihood of any settlement except divorce, for I must regulate my position. My affairs are in the hands of lawyers, and they inform me that there is no prospect of a settlement. I have always heard that Americans make good, loyal husbands, but I myself made a bad bargain. Unhappily, my marriage, from the first, was a complete misunderstanding."

As Mme. Cavalieri said this she made a gesture of impatience.

Studies New Role.

The famous singer, looking wonderfully beautiful, was found in an apartment overlooking the snow-clad square in which stands St. Isaac's Cathedral. She was studying the role she will create in Paris next spring in a new opera, "Gironda."

Her gown was of the Liberty pattern, crowned with a magnificent pearl necklace, and a blue ribbon bound her black hair.

"I still feel the effects of last summer's attack of appendicitis in Paris, and the distress of my marriage misunderstanding," she said, "but happily this lassitude does not cause the slightest injury to my voice. I have sung six times this season in opera in St. Petersburg, and have given three concerts. I go to bed at 10:30 o'clock when I am not singing.

"I certainly shall go to Boston next winter, and perhaps to New York."

Closing the interview, Mme. Cavalieri turned to a fashion paper and, pointing to a picture of the new harem skirt, asked: "What do you think of this?"

She answered her own question by observing that with a tunic, she believed she would like it very much.

COUNT APPONYI MOBBED AFTER GIVING LECTURE

Hungarians and Slavs Attack His Automobile and Police Use Their Clubs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Count Albert Apponyi was attacked by a mob and his life almost sacrificed last night when he addressed a large meeting at the Fine Arts Hall. Frenzied Slavs who have threatened the Hungarian statesman ever since he arrived in Chicago, attacked his automobile after the lecture and seemed on the point of tearing him to pieces when the police rescued him.

The riots were so serious that the police reserves were called out and a number of the rioters were arrested.

When the Count arrived at the Fine Arts Hall he was enthusiastically greeted by a great crowd of Hungarians. About 800 of his fellow countrymen were crowded into the hall and as many more stormed the place trying to force an entrance. The police succeeded in quelling the uproar after 10 of the leading disturbers were ejected.

Mobbed on Way to Auto.

At the conclusion of the meeting a path was cleared for the Count through the mob of excited men and he succeeded in reaching his automobile. Then the crowd attempted to close in on the nobleman, crushing about his car, and only the large force of police saved him. He was finally able to escape after ten arrests of men had been made for attempting to enter his car.

An attempted rescue of the arrested men then forced the police to draw their clubs and beat back the shouting mob. This riot, immediately in front of the Chicago Club, was the most spectacular of the night. Supporters and opponents of Count Apponyi took sides and a general battle raged.

Police Use Clubs.

The police clubbed and charged until they were able to force their way through and rush their prisoners to the Harrison Street Station.

Count Apponyi's speech, which was delivered in Hungarian, was principally advice to the Hungarians to be good Americans. What aroused the audience was his plea that the Slav peoples of Hungary should receive the same treatment as the Hungarians.

Monument for Four Aviators.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The American Aeronautic Society has voted to endeavor to raise by public subscription money enough to erect a suitable monument in Washington, D. C., in memory of four American aviators who have lost their lives. The aviators are: Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, Ralph Johnstone, John B. Moisant and Arch Hoxsey.

WIFE FAILS AS ALARM CLOCK, SO SUES FOR DIVORCE

She Declares Husband Acted in Wild Manner When She Awoke Him.

OTHERS WANT FREEDOM

Salesman Says His Wife Likened a Diamond Locket Gift to 30 Cents.

When Mrs. Mildros Bauers made a failure in trying to please her husband John S. Bauers, while acting as his alarm clock, she sued him for a divorce. The suit was filed Friday in the Circuit Court. She alleges that when she awoke her husband in the morning at the time he requested, he became angry, broke the dishes and "charged about like a madman."

On one occasion her husband threw her pet dog out of a second-story window, Mrs. Bauers states in her petition. She says her husband called her vile names and drank liquor to excess. The Bauers were married April 4, 1910, and separated in Augsut of that year. Bauers lives at 3043 Easton avenue.

Salesman Sues Wife.

George W. Trowbridge, a traveling salesman, filed a suit for a divorce from Mary E. Trowbridge, alleging that she told him that she does not love him, but loves another. He says his wife slapped him, and once told him that she loved one hair in the other man's head more than she loved her husband's whole anatomy.

His wife threw a diamond locket on the floor and refused to wear it, declaring it looked to her like 30 cents, after he had given it to her as a Christmas present, he alleges. He says Mrs. Trowbridge wrote insulting letters to him while he was on the road, and pouted and refused to speak to him when he returned home.

Mrs. Trowbridge lives at 1640 Helen street, according to her husband. They were married Aug. 9, 1906, and separated in January, 1910.

Accuses His Wife.

David Meyer alleges that his wife, Bertha, entertained a man in his home without his knowledge, in his petition for a divorce filed Friday. He also alleges that his wife remained out late at night, and failed to prepare his meals with regularity.

They were married April 6, 1904, and lived together until Feb. 8, 1911. Mrs. Meyer lives at 5891A Delmar boulevard.

WINS FREEDOM BY HER LAUGHING EYE

Girl Arrested for Attracting Young Men Is Freed and Complimented by Judge.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 24.—Alderman John F. Donohue today decided that it is no crime for a girl with pretty eyes to use them to attract young men or old. He had before him Miss Marian Chapelle of Brooklyn, who is visiting friends across the river from this city. It was said she had affected a large number of young men with her so-called "laughing eyes."

Mrs. Annie Ludow caused the girl's arrest on the chare of disorderly conduct. Mrs. Ludow asserted her son Henry was among the young men affected by the "laughing eyes."

Alderman Donohue, sitting as judge, discharged Miss Chapelle at once and complimented her on her pretty eyes.

"We are glad to have such a captivating person in our community," he said, "and indeed we owe you a debt of gratitude for keeping our young men out of bad habits by making them think they are in love with you. It is no crime for a woman to have pretty eyes and to use them, and there is no law to govern the use of such eyes."

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequaled remedy for whooping cough.

If you try this, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing home elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

GO WITH THE CROWD TO SEE DECIES WED

Remarkable photographs showing the crowds and other incidents of a recent international marriage will be found in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch Picture Supplement.

HOW many cameras were aimed at Vivien Gould when she emerged from the church after her wedding ceremony? About as many as the guns Dewey pointed at the terrified Spaniards on a celebrated May morning. The Sunday Post-Dispatch Picture Supplement camera photographed the photographers at work and also the incidents of the seething crowd. If you want to see a big city mad over a social event see these photographs next Sunday.

The Picture Supplement will also personally conduct you through that part of Mexico which is now being torn by revolution and show you the revolutionists in the actual operations of warfare. Do not think there is no action in this revolution. If the cartoonists were right and the jokes had the only correct information why has Uncle Sam sent three regiments of picked troops to guard the border and enforce neutrality laws?

How Djeli dances in the languorous swaying movements of the East to the great approval of Europe is shown in special photographs. She is a wonderful sensation and is surrounded by a group of natives from the Far East who give a wonderful glamor to her performance.

"THE Thrilling Message of the Song" is the next real life story in the Sunday Post-Dispatch prize contest. One thousand dollars was offered in five parts for true stories with correct names, dates and places of adventure, romance, humor, etc. The prize story in the romance class has been printed. Next Sunday the Magazine will contain another entrant in the same class. It is the story of a family separated for many years and reunited by a song.

MORE transfer embroidery designs will appear in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine—initial letters that you will be glad to embroider on your linen. Forty-six prizes ranging from $15 to $1 are offered for the best work. This second embroidery contest will close March 11 while the first (on the designs in the paper of Feb. 19) closes on March 4.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN SIGNS? THEN GAZE ON THESE

Electric-Lighted Boards Will Tell City How Its Trade Is Growing.

Four big electric signs to be erected on corners in the West End residence district by the Business Men's League will tell St. Louisans some of the things St. Louis is doing.

The largest sign will be at Beaumont and Olive streets. It will be 50 feet long and will read:

The factory product of St. Louis has increased nearly 50 per cent in 10 years. There are reasons.

A 28-foot board at Grand and Manchester avenues will say:

The things St. Louis factories made last year were sold for more than $300,000,000. They would have cost the people more but for cheap electric power.

At Newstead and Finney avenues a sign 35 feet long will tell this story:

St. Louis is becoming a world manufacturing city. Nearly $40,000,000 worth of goods made here were exported last year. Our manufacturers meet competition in foreign markets.

A sign at Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenue, 33 feet in length, will proclaim:

The St. Louis industrial campaign last year established here 135 factories. Cheap power had much to do with it.

The wording of the signs was done by W. F. Saunders, secretary of the Business Men's League. They will be erected and maintained free by the Union Electric Light and Power Co.

Matador Barely Escapes Bull.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 24.—In a bull fight in Neuvo, Laredo Gaona, a world-famous matador, had a narrow escape from death. While goading the bull to madness with a red flag the animal made a sudden lunge and caught Gaona with its horns, ripping the matador's clothing and cutting the skin on the left side of the breast.

NEW MILLINERY TO BE KINGLY IN STYLE AND PRICE

Coronation Theme Is to Dominate, in Honor of His Majesty of England.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Because His Majesty of England is to be crowned three months hence, the prevailing theme in feminine headgear for 1911 will be coronation.

This pronunciamento comes from delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Milliners, which will be called to order here tonight. Five thousand delegates are said to be in the city today. Among the Easter creations are:

Empire bonnet—A close-fitting affair; a glorification of the hoods worn by aviators and automobile racers.

Helmet hats—A reduced size of designs usually given to large hats; resembles the hat of a London "bobby."

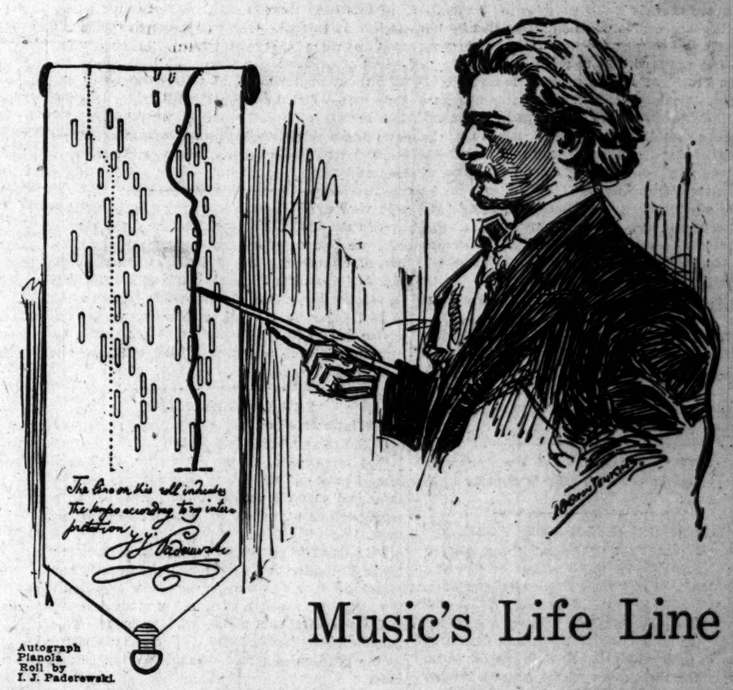

Louis XI turban—Draped hood in two styles; (a) soft for dress; (b) high and round, of less clinging.

Others include the classical Rembrandt of the Louis XIV shape, which is turned up behind and down in front; the Reynolds hat of 1870, with the side front turned up; the Gainsborough and the leghorn. For the out-of-doors this style will be affected.

As to trimming, it is asserted that ribbon flowers have come to stay and likewise lace flowers. The latter must be white. Among the flowers, roses, buttercups, daisies, dandelions and sweet peas finds favor. Coronation colors will predominate in the spring, but these probably will give way to individual ideas as the season progresses.

The correctly gowned woman, in addition, will add to her spring finery a large muff of tagal straw and maline, in the same shade as her hat.

A male reporter with a large family meekly inquired as to the latest style in prices, but was frowned down. He said he ascertained from other sources, however, that the style in prices would be high and round, turned up fore and aft and port and starboard.

Autograph Pianola Roll by I. J. Paderewski.

Music's Life Line

The Metrostyle is music's life line. It is a clearly marked red line on Pianola rolls, and shows you just how to play as the composer intended. The world's greatest musicians, including Paderewski, Grieg, Strauss, Humperdinck, Hofman, Chaminade, and scores of others have given it their enthusiastic approval. Many of them have personally dictated the Metrostyle expression line for every one of their compositions, on autographed Pianola music rolls. Think what a priceless privilege it is to play under the personal direction of these great musical leaders. The Metrostyle is found only in the Pianola Piano. Metrostyled music rolls are sold only to bona fide Pianola owners.

The genuine Pianola is built into but five pianos:

Steinway, Weber, Steck, Wheelock, Stuyvesant

The entire line is sold only at Aeolian Hall.

The Aeolian Co

Largest manufacturers of musical instruments in the world.

Aeolian Hall, 1004 Olive Street

There are more Pianola Pianos in use in Saint Louis than all other players combined. The name "Pianola" applies only to instruments made by the Aeolian Co.

ENCOURAGING.

The favorable report on the Municipal Courts bill is encouraging. The opposition to it is of the kind that has customarily succeeded. The bill cannot be made into law unless its appeal to the majority of both Houses is as effective as to the House Committee. This appeal is solely of merit. Officially the measure has no friends from the district wherein it will operate. The St. Louis delegation does not represent St. Louis sentiment in the matter of the reform of the petty courts. St. Louis is humiliated by the discovery that its Jefferson City delegation is composed of narrow partisans and spoilsmen.

Disagreeable as is this discovery, it is tempered by the thought that the Legislature as a whole can be moved by a demonstration of the merit in a reform measure and made heedful of local sentiment. It raises the hope that opposition of the kind offered to the Municipal Courts bill will be as ineffective in respect of other measures no less meritorious. The nine-hour bill for women employes, the child labor and statewide factory inspection bills are among those whose appeal should find favor.

The Legislature will have to stamp on partisanship, the schemes of spoilsmen, political machines and private greed if it is to give the State new laws to remedy manifest abuses. Humiliated as St. Louis is over the treacherous conduct of its own representatives, it is glad that members outside of St. Louis have shown themselves openminded and clear-headed, neither susceptible to the sad arguments of the St. Louis gang of spoilsmen nor unappreciative of what is for the best interests of the city.

The Republican organ refers to the opposition to the Municipal Courts bill in the State Legislature as "nonpartisan." On the same its attitude is independent of party considerations.

MR. TAFT'S OPPORTUNITY.

Committed to an extra session in the Canadian matter, the President may identify his administration with a nation-wide appeal for justice by coupling with that issue a recommendation that food and clothing be untaxed. He cannot in any case limit the activities of Congress, but he can influence them greatly, and, by wisely voicing the people's will, repeatedly expressed, he can do much to bring a troublesome question to a moderate and reasonable settlement.

The interests affected by tariff legislation present so many selfish political, financial and sectional claims that true reform can hardly be entered upon except in a non-partisan way. Every condition is now favorable to such a movement.

It happens that the dying Congress, so far as the Senate is concerned, is wedded to its dols of privilege. It happens that the new Congress in both houses is more favorable to progress. It happens that the President at this moment is an enlightened Republican protectionist, having a regard for millions of men as well as millions of money. It happens that the time also is auspicious. No presidential election impends, and even inveterate politicians may be expected to act with some regard for popular rights.

Under our system nobody but the President can take full advantage of such a situation as this. Presidents who rise to their greatest opportunities do not speak for party, but for the people. Party triumphs are soon forgotten. It is the achievements of the people that have fame and honor.

Mr. Taft has done much in the reciprocity matter to advance a right principle. To untax food and clothing generally would be to give that idea to the nation instead of to a section and to gain for himself a lasting remembrance in every American home.

The vote on the capitol bond issue resolution indicates that horseback riding is popular in the State Senate.

ASQUITH'S MEMORABLE WORK.

The splendid ovation given Prime Minister Asquith in the House of Commons on the adoption of the veto bill curtailing the power of the House of Lords was well deserved. Mr. Asquith has earned his honors by leading the Liberal party to victory in one of the most notable and momentous struggles in English parliamentary history. The three years of the Asquith ministry will be forever memorable for extraordinary achievement in behalf of the common people of Great Britain. It must be credited with the successful culmination of three far-reaching reforms—tax reform which shifts the burden of taxes from the poor to the rich and privileged, and which will restore the land to the people; the reform of the House of Lords which clears the way for legislation in the interest of all the British people, and home rule for Ireland now practically assured.

Although the late Campbell-Bannerman initiated the policy of reform undertaken by the Liberals, and Lloyd-George has been the flaming brand of agitation who has aroused the people to action, Asquith has been the acknowledged leader of the movement. He has been the intellectual head, the guiding and governing power who planned the battle and directed the forces. He supplied the calm strength and balance which held the party to the line of most effective work. It has been said of him that he is all brains. He has been called "the human icicle;" but his cool persistence and intellectual acumen have been invaluable to the cause. While it is true that the Prime Minister would probably have failed without the courage, eloquence, magnetism and passionate intensity of Lloyd-George, yet it is also true that these qualities of the Welch orator would probably have been wasted without the firm determination and brilliant strategy of Asquith.

The vitality, sincerity and wisdom of British Liberalism under Asquith's leadership are inspirations for progressive statesmanship everywhere.

FACTIONAL VS. PUBLIC INTEREST.

The argument that the Kiel faction of the Republican party, which controls the organization, is as good as the Kreismann faction does not bear upon the situation which menaces St. Louis in the April election.

The Post-Dispatch holds no brief for Mayor Kreismann and his supporters in politics. We have found occasion a number of times to oppose the Mayor's policies. In warning the people of St. Louis against the possible consequences of the high-handed attempt of the Kiel faction to gain absolute control of the Republican organization and of the candidates to be chosen for the Council and House we are not urging that the Mayor be given control, nor are we reflecting upon the character of the men who now dominate the Republican organization. Our warning lies against the objects of the dominating faction.

The purpose of the anti-Kreismann faction is not to oppose policies of the Mayor which may be contrary to the public welfare, but to obstruct his will with a view of compelling him to submit to its dictation in the matter of appointments. The motives of the bosses are sordid. They are merely partisan and factional, seeking to bring the Mayor to terms for the practical control of the city government and the distribution of the spoils for the domination of the party.

With these purposes the surrender of the Mayor would be the signal for the concentration of all the forces to carry out the conditions of the capitulation. The interests of the people of St. Louis would be lost in the combination of the factions to satisfy the interests of the united machine. The terms of union would not be the serving of the public welfare, but the satisfying of boss demands for the spoils.

If the Democrats were wise and energetic they might by a sincere appeal to popular, and particularly independent, support break the power of the Republican machine and do a great public service by electing six strong representatives to the Council. They might elect some good men to the House. If the Democrats fail to seize the opportunity, an independent movement would be of great service. It would unite the best elements of the city in defense of good government.

The attention of the Missouri Pacific is called to the fact that there are plenty of unemployed railroad presidents and the want columns are the most convenient method of reaching the unemployed.

THE REAL QUESTION.

The Lorimer trial ceased some time ago to be a trial of Lorimer. The United States Senate is on trial. Whether Lorimer stays or goes will make little difference in itself. As a political leader he is discredited; as a Senator he can never be anything but a nonentity with one vote.

But the Senate is in different case. It is the most distinguished deliberative assemblage in the world. In its membership have been numbered the greatest names in the country's history. In its present make-up it suffers not by comparison with the past.

In this body there is no place for a man whose election is tainted. One who seeks to retain his position there under accusations bearing great weight of evidence is not senatorial material. He is without appreciation of the character of the body with which he seeks identification. He has no conception of the honor of membership. By retaining such a man the Senate writes itself down to his level. The question is one of the Senate's respect for itself.

In view of Mr. Roosevelt's sympathetic attitude toward the initiative, the referendum and the recall, we hasten to send our condolences to Mr. Bryan. Another political jewel is about to be snatched from his Jeffersonian bosom. The only paramount issue that Mr. Roosevelt has now left to Mr. Bryan is that of county option, and we advise him to lock it in a safety deposit vault before the Colonel begins to swarm southward in March.

THE RATE DECISION.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has rendered the most momentous decision in its history. It has established, so far as it may, the fundamental principle that there is a relation between rates and earnings and that the people are to be considered as parties to the profits railroads may earn.

This decision comes as the result of long and bitter discussion and agitation. The railroads have presented their case fully. They have appealed to the people for support. They have made economic and sentimental as well as legal arguments. Their whole attitude has changed. They put themselves in the position of public servants asking permission.

It must be admitted that they presented a strong case. President Ripley of the Santa Fe showed that they had curtailed their expenditures over $700,000,000 in 1910 as compared with 1907, and there has been ample demonstration that the country suffered as the result of railroad inactivities. It was shown that railroad men are the highest-paid workingmen in the world, that wages had increased 23 per cent in 10 years, while rates had remained stationary. It was shown that out of 236,869 miles of track, only 65,768 were operated by block signal and less than one-tenth was double-tracked. It was shown that the capitalization per mile is less than in any other country and the efficiency greater. And the conclusion always was that without higher rates expansion was impossible and efficiency could not be increased.

On the other hand, it was shown that earnings had increased beyond every expense. Prof. Smalley, after figuring that there had been a grand total increase in railroad expenses of 106 per cent in 10 years, showed that in the same time passenger traffic had increased 126 per cent and freight traffic 149 per cent. His other figures are equally antagonistic to the railroad claims. For instance, the amount of income available for dividends increased 453 per cent from 1897 to 1907, and the amount actually paid increased 253 per cent. The arguments, supported by figures, clearly demonstrated that the railroads, despite all their claims, were in a remarkably prosperous condition.

The decision inaugurates a new era in railroad affairs. The railroads cannot increase rates without showing substantively the necessity for so doing. Their initial failure in this undertaking will not deter them from making future efforts, but there is a satisfying assurance that henceforth rates are to be regulated by reason, not by greed and interests of Wall street.

The evidence that the State Legislature is not in sympathy with the sordid spirit of the Republican spoilsmen who misrepresent the people of St. Louis in opposing the Municipal Courts bill is highly gratifying. The passage of this measure would go far to prove the truth of the statement that the present Legislature is one of the strongest that has gathered in Jefferson City.

Some of the justice's courts—there are exceptions of course—have become travesties on the name; they are courts of injustice.

The Asquith idea is that British lords should have more time to devote to whatever it is that lords are useful for.

After a careful search Mr. Taft found California's toe and stepped on it.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To Help the Symphony.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As one means of contributing to make up the $17,000 deficit of the Symphony Society, may I suggest that one way would be for the people to turn out and fill the Odeon for the concert tonight and the two that are yet to come. If every seat is sold for these three and for the remaining Sunday popular concerts it will be the best kind of help that can be given. Recalling the number of empty seats I have seen at this season's concerts, I conclude that if every ticket had been sold for every one the deficit would be negligible. R.

About Tent Odeons.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In justice to the owners of tent theaters in the suburbs, I wish to correct the statement of the police captain who reported the burning of the tent at Broadway and Bremen avenue Tuesday. He says had the tent been filled with people at the time hundreds would have been killed. As a matter of fact they are the safest places of amusement in the city. I myself witnessed an alarm of fire in one of them, and the employes at once cut the canvas on all sides, and the entire audience made their way out in less than one minute.

Besides, I will sit in any one of them and let them set it on fire and burn it around me without injury to myself, as nothing but the canvas ever burns, and that goes up in the air. The tent mentioned had been taken down for repairs and came in contact with a heated stove.

OLD CANVASMAN.

Dangers of the Nickelodeon Tent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The enclosed clipping about a nickleodeon tent burning down in three minutes would seem to show that precautions against holocausts are confined to theaters proper. Think for a moment what would have happened had this fire occurred at night! The Post-Dispatch—always in the van in protecting our people—should take this matter up and insist upon measures being adopted and rigidly enforced against recurrences of this character.

C. W. BARNES.

St. Louis' Misrepresentation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The stand taken on the Municipal Courts bill by the entire St. Louis delegation, in the General Assembly, in my opinion amounts to a severe trial of a representative form of government. Our representatives in the Assembly are supposed to represent the sentiment of at least a majority of the people in their districts, and to cast their votes with some regard for such sentiment. Can it be seriously contended, for instance, that the St. Louis delegation at this time reflects the "majority of sentiment" in this city on this important measure? Any person at all conversant with the situation in this city will say that we certainly need relief from the abuses that obtain in our minor courts, and this measure proposes that relief; but not a single member can be found from this city in favor of this bill. Some of our representatives have developed into "constitutional lawyers" in order to justify their stand; others bluntly tell you they are opposed to it for political reasons. I want to say to you that last summer when these gentlemen were being nominated, they were "sounded" on this measure, and, if a lawyer and he immediately gave a "curbstone" opinion that the measure was unconstitutional, he was O K'd; if he was not a lawyer, he was asked how he stood upon the measure, and if he said he was opposed he was passed, and I know that no man who was in favor of the measure ever received one bit of political support for a member of the General Assembly. This to me is a sad condition of affairs. These gentlemen now from St. Louis I fear represent nobody but their "master"; as far as the citizens of this city are concerned they indeed are "misrepresentatives."

All will admit that we need relief in the minor courts of this city from a system that is annually costing the city more than $40,000 and rendering the people the poorest kind of service; therefore I say to these constitutional lawyers: Prepare and introduce a measure that you feel will be constitutional, but do something besides "pick flaws." You are there to give us relief from a condition that is intolerable.

I understand that if the citizens of this city can convince the country members that our delegation now at Jefferson City does not fairly reflect the sentiment of the people of this city on this measure they will pass it in spite of their opposition; therefore, I propose, Mr. Editor, that you, through your paper, start a petition similar to the one you are running for the extra session of Congress, and let us see if we cannot smoke our "honorables" from St. Louis out.

Unwholesome and Indecent Crowding.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Car 1079 of the Hodiamont line, passing Grand avenue at about 5:05 p. m. this afternoon, had 101 cash fares and 17 transfer fares registered, on the westbound trip. Monday evening, Feb. 20, a car on same line, westbound, passing King's highway at about 6:20 p. m., had 120 fares registered. The fare taker was constantly calling out to the passengers: "Move forward, please," with a small red-hot stove awaiting those who moved up. Is it not about time steps were taken to stop this indecent, unsanitary, unhealthy and immodest crowding of street cars? A. CLARK.

Park Ball Grounds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"G. M. H." makes a good point in regard to ball games in the parks, and I hope that you will push the matter along to a successful and happy conclusion. This is a deserving and just matter and the Park Commisioner should get busy this spring.

In Lincoln Park, at Chicago, they have a well-kept field, where eight or 10 ball games can go on at once. In Belle Isle Park, at Detroit, there is a well-kept field, with wire backstops, water, etc., for the use of the various amateur teams.

"G. M. H.'s" suggestion of laying out four or five diamonds just west of old Lindell Pavilion is a good one and should be heeded.

LORIMER LOGIC.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Senate debate on the Lorimer case is truly illuminating in some respects. It discloses, for instance, that Senator Paynter cannot believe a man's confession that he had been bribed in Lorimer's interest because he does believe the man's confession that he had been bribed in some other one's interest. Senator Bailey works himself up into such admiration of the purity of Lorimer that rather than believe his hero can do any wrong he proclaims that those who question the immaculateness of his title to his seat are guilty of forgery.

APOSTROPHE TO A GOLF BALL.

GO, little ball, and going fly
With fine precision through the sky—
Nor give yourself the least concern
For when, perhaps, you may return.

Beyond this vale of gloom and tears
There is a green, so it appears—
And if you can discover it,
Yours truly will not mind a bit.

Go, little ball, toward the cup—
Keep looking up, keep looking up—
And have a care, dear little ball,
For hazards, bunkers and the tall.

Go like a swallow in its flight,
And roll like thunder when you fall—
Go like the devil, little ball!

PLEA FOR INDIVIDUALISM.

Nevada thinks of giving her condemned a choice between hanging, shooting and taking poison.

Why not let the individual himself select the manner in which he shall die? Each of us knows best what will kill him, and so long as it does kill him, what possible difference can it make to the State? An apoplectic railroad man, for instance, could easily kill himself with merely thinking about Roosevelt. Is there any objection to that? After all, doesn't it suggest a manner in which we might safely permit a free exercise of that great individuality of which we are capable in this country, but for which we have not yet found a harmless method of asserting itself?

Nevada is not restrained by many conventions. She can take a great stride toward the ultimate government here if she will.

NIGHTINGALE.—We don't know "hand-made pretzels." Ten pretzels recipe appeared Jan. 23. "Salted pretzels" would fill half a column. You may copy at this office.

FREUND.—"No tools lent to any one" would be better English than "no tools loaned," though loaned is a colloquialism that may yet fully establish itself as a respectable word.

READER.—By finite verb is meant the finite mood, the opposite of infinite; that is, that form of a verb which is specific, naming not only the action, but denoting the time of it.

IGNORANT.—Any alteration of the note may void it. As it is, you can collect irrespective of its falling due on the 30th, there being only 28 days in this month (February). If he refuses to pay, foreclose the mortgage.

A. Y. C.—We advise you to pay, otherwise your policy will lapse, though good for a specified time as stated in policy, i. e., paid up insurance according to table, after which time the policy terminates. Read your policy and you will know more.

SYRUP.—A little alum—size of a pea—will prevent granulation of sugar syrup. Someone says: If in making syrup from sugar you use half granulated and half white it will not be likely to turn to sugar again. Never stir the sugar while it is boiling.

C. C.—When a pawn advances to the eighth square on the chess board it may become either a queen, rook, knight or bishop at the option of the player "queening" the pawn. The number of queens, etc., each side may take up is limited only by the number of pawns on the board.—George H. Wolbrecht, president St. Louis Chess Club.

IGNORANT.—Low-water width of Missouri River at Jefferson City, according to Missouri River Commission map made 20 years ago, 1000 feet; high water, 2000. At bend four miles above Jefferson City is a mile wide. Bridge width, 1145.7 feet. Deepest soundings under the several spans in 1896 varied from 10 to 13 feet, taken at a stage corresponding to mean low navigable water on Jefferson City gauge.

DREAMER.—Almost every one dreams, although there are some persons who say that they never do. That some of this class do dream, however, has been proved by observation of them during sleep, and there is some ground for the theory that every one dreams, the images presented to the brain being stronger or fainter, as the case may be. Some animals dream, especially those of the higher order, which is not surprising when we consider the similarity of their brain formation to that of the human being. It is a common occurrence for a dog to move and even bark in his sleep.

MAURICE.—Your tuberculosis questions are thus answered by Secretary J. Hal Lynch of the Missouri Commission: (1) This information we cannot secure, although we have attempted to do so. (2) 1318 died in 1909 and it is estimated, from statistics on hand, that there have been 1471 in 1910, but the figures have not been made up. (3) Capacity of Koch Hospital, 130. There are about 90 in this hospital. Patients are only taken when they are city charges and are in advanced stages of the disease. Incipient cases not received; there is no place for incipient cases in St. Louis. (4) No legislation has been enacted by past Legislatures covering the points mentioned in this question. The recommendations just submitted to the Governor by the Missouri Commission on Tuberculosis covers this point and it is hoped that powers will be vested in the State Board of Health which will look to the segregation of the tuberculosis cases. (5) We have never heard that any State has offered employment to its consumptives, except in some of the sanatoriums light work is provided in the open, such as gardening, etc. (6) You are mistaken in thinking that the medical profession does not think consumption should be quarantined. I think you will find that it is universally believed among the doctors of this country that consumption is contagious and should, in a manner, be quarantined, or at least that the patients should be taken care of in such a way as not to permit the transmitting of the disease to others.

Wives Who Have Made Their Husbands

A Series of Near Biographies on Women Who Have Adorned the Brightest Pages of History, Done for the Post-Dispatch

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

No. III.—LADY MACBETH.

THERE is no doubt that many of the ladies whom I shall include among the wives who have made their husbands famous will object to the presence of Lady Macbeth.

That is why I am taking her so early.

Eve was a broad-minded soul, and being all alone in the Garden of Eden could not cultivate feelings of social or moral superiority. For it is having inferiors, and not merely being superior, that the woman who cares for classification enjoys.

Helen of Troy was never in the least narrow during her lifetime and can't afford to be now. Those who came after Lady Macbeth will have the privilege of staying out of the series if they consider her unfit to be their associates. We have only Shakespeare's word for our conception of the strong, purposeful woman who made her vacillating husband King of Scotland.

But I would rather believe a poet than a historian any day in the year.

Macbeth was a drifter, the sort of person who lets things happen instead of making them happen.

The witches greeted him with "Hail, King that shall be!" and notwithstanding this strong hint from the Fates, he might have assumed that events would shape themselves automatically to their phophecy if his more practical wife had not shown him how the murder of King Duncan, then on his way to visit them, would serve his ambition.

But be sure that Macbeth had already thought about the murder himself.

Women are franker with themselves and possibly less frank with each other than men are.

In his soul Macbeth knew, as all those who woo success must know, that nothing happens if you merely sit down and wait for it.

Probably before he said anything to Lady Macbeth about the disturbing salutation of the witches he knew what he would have to do. But he wanted some one else to formulate it. He realized, as many another married man has, that to make his wife his conscience was to have a moral scapegoat securely tethered in the back yard of his soul.

There may be thirteen original jokes. There may be thirty-six dramatic situations. But there never has been, and never will be, but one excuse from man to his maker.

"The woman that Thou gavest me tempted me."

Lady Macbeth merely voiced the temptation that was in her husband's soul, as many million wives after her have done. She made him pay the price of his ambition in the blood of those who stood between him and its realization.

If she had not shown him how to do it, if she had not let him believe that he was merely the instrument and not the originator of a terrible crime, he might never have been King and the protagonist of one of the world's greatest dramas as well.

He would have lived and died a petty Thane and his name would have been unknown to the generation which came after him.

With our modern distaste for murder we may not consider Macbeth's fame desirable. But we have to admit that his wife made it just by having the courage of his secret hopes.

Reflections of A Bachelor Girl

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Helen Rowland.

IT isn't the man who paints his virtues in three colors and begs her to marry him, but the man who paints his sins in vermilion and begs her to "save" him who usually wins the girl.

——When a man promises in a careless moment to "love, honor and cherish" a woman it gives him a cold shock to wake up and find that this includes paying for her hats.

——The difference between a "drinking man" and a "high liver" is merely a question of whether he gets it at the corner cafe or at a club.

——When you consider that anybody who has a dollar and a few moments to spare can get married, regardless of his character or his income, it seems almost a shame to take the certificate!

——If you want a man to propose don't try to make your family coddle him. Make them hate him, because a man never really "takes hold" until somebody begins to pull the other way.

——The grace and enthusiasm with which men make love on the stage is only exceeded by the careless complacency with which they do it in the parlor.

——At eighteen every girl firmly believes that some day she will meet a man who looks like the pictures in the backs of the magazines. Ah, well!

THE BOSS

Novelized From Edward Sheldon's Play of That Name.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Michael Regan, an ex-barkeeper, has seized all the grain handling business in a big lake port city and has grown rich by ill-using his employes. Among the victims of his financial deals are Homer and Donald Griswold, father and son. Donald learns with disgust that his sister, Emily, has met Regan and that she rather admires him. She is horrified at hearing of the man's true character. Regan offers to save Griswold from bankruptcy and prison in return for Emily's hand in marriage. Father and son angrily refuse. To save her father, Emily consents, but stipulates that she shall be Regan's wife in name only. After the marriage Donald incites Regan's laborers to strike. Six months after the wedding Regan and Emily quarrel because of the latter's refusal to accept a costly present from her husband.

CHAPTER V.
Trouble!

THE duel of eyes endured for the briefest of instants. Then Regan glanced down at the jeweler's box in his hand.

"I wish you'd take this, Emily," he pleaded. "It's a beauty. You ain't even looked at it yet. See," opening the box, "it's a frawg, all made out of diamonds, with"—

"I can't take it, Michael," she repeated, turning away without a glance at the gorgeous trinket. "Please don't ask me to."

"But I do"——

"Credit it at the jeweler's," she suggested, "and send the money to Father Kelly for his 'Strikers' Home Fund.'"

"Give cash to the strikers that are tryin' to down me? I"——

"It's for their wives and children, who are starving. In any case I will not take the present. Please let's say no more about it."

"All right!" he sighed, gloomily. "I didn't know—I thought maybe it'd please you. I won't bother you no more. Good-night."

He slouched away to his office in the farther corridor. Emily, turning wearily from the room, was met at the door by the butler.

"Mr. Donald Griswold, madam," said the man.

Emily cast a frightened yet joyous glance about her. It was the first time Donald had come to see her since her marriage. And the prospect of meeting her adored brother after so long an estrangement thrilled her. Yet she feared lest he and Regan might meet. Then, remembering that her husband had gone to his office—presumably for the rest of the evening—she bade the butler show her brother into the library.

A moment later Donald Griswold entered the room. He was in a rough business suit, as he thought befitted a man who was about to preside at a strikers' mass meeting. Also, the hard, endless work of months in organizing and directing the union had made him older and thinner. Emily ran forward eagerly to meet him.

"Don! Oh, Don!" she cried. "It's so good to see you! I'm so glad—so GLAD you've come at last. How is dad? Is his rheumatism"——

"I wasn't sure you'd receive me," said Donald, coldly, making no movement to return the caress. "After all that's happened"——

"I couldn't give in, dear," she answered. "And when you and dad wouldn't answer any of my letters—— But don't let's talk about that now! You're here at last. That's the only thing that really counts."

"I can only stay a minute or two," he returned. "I'm chairman of the big mass meeting tonight at St. Mary's Hall. The meeting to protest against Regan, you know. I've come here, Emily, to find out what side you take in this fight of ours."

"What side?" she repeated. "I—I don't know."

"But you must surely have some opinion about it. Don't!"

"I've never interfered with Michael's business," she said. "I've just done what I could to help the strikers' poor families. I suppose I've been cowardly about facing the issue. But—this evening I had such a terrible note from the Archbishop. He wouldn't dine with us tonight, and told me why. He told me such dreadful things—how Michael's men killed a saloon keeper—Dave Hurley—today—and—Oh, Don, it's all so horrible!" she cried, breaking down and throwing her arms about her brother. "Sometimes I feel I can't keep it up any longer. Be good to me, dear—I need you—I am so unhappy!"

"You poor little girl!" soothed Donald, showing for the first time a rift in his armor of cold aloofness. "Don't cry! Your big brother's here now and he'll make it all right for you."

"I—I'm sorry I was babyish!" she sobbed, fighting for self-control. "It's—it's so good to have you back again, Don!"

"Is it?" said Donald. "Then you'll try to help me, won't you?"

"Help you? Of course, dear. How?"

"Regan's men are striking and joining our union at the rate of a hundred a day. If this keeps up we'll be able to make him shut down business by Monday. He can't hold out any longer than that at latest. Unless"——

"Unless what?"

"Well," answered Donald, "we've got rumors that he has sent to Alabama for 2000 negroes to be hurried here to take the place of the strikers, to start them working at the docks at one-quarter of a white man's wages. That would wreck our strike. Now, before I get at the railroads and head him off I've got to be perfectly sure he's really planning to do that. That's why I came to see you."

"I don't understand."

"Has he really sent South for those 2000 negroes, Emily?"

"I don't know. I know nothing about his business."

"Then find out—for me. Find out whether this is true and find by what railroad he means to bring them. Then we can nab him in the act. Find out from him tonight if you can, and telephone me first thing in the morning."

"But, dear," protested Emily, "I could not do that."

"Of course you could!" he declared. "Perfectly easy. Just say you're interested in his fight. Get him talking about it. He'll tell you the whole thing."

"You don't understand," corrected Emily. "I mean I can't bring myself to do such a thing—to spy upon my own husband."

"Nonsense! Your husband, eh? You're one of US. Come! It's your only chance to show father and me that you're sorry for what you did—that you still love us."

"I tell you I can't," persisted Emily.

"No?" sneered Donald. "Then you ARE on his side? And you approve of his starving the poor and killing saloon keepers and"——

"No,—no! I hate it all, with all my soul! But he's my husband. And I can't betray him. You have no right to come here and ask me to."

"One thing is certain," said Donald, rising, "I shall never come again."

"If that is the only reason that brought you," she flashed, "I hope you won't. Why did you stir up all this trouble against Michael? Didn't he deal fairly with you? He pulled you and dad out of bankruptcy, set you both on your feet and gave you half his business, just as he agreed to. When I think how fairly he has treated you and then the way you're behaving toward him—I'm ashamed of my own family."

"I think that is all I care to hear," said Donald, stiffly, turning on his heel and going toward the door.

Before he reached it the door from the office was flung open and Regan came into the library. At sight of Donald Griswold his little eyes flamed and his square face went purple with sudden rage. Striding forward, with tight-clenched fists, he bellowed:

"Git out of my house, you dirty, sneakin' cur, before I"——

Emily sprang between the two angry men and faced her raging husband fearlessly.

"Stop that!" she ordered. "This is my brother and he shall come and go as he pleases in my home."

"Not so long as it's my home, too!" denied Regan. "I've never interfered with you, Emily. You've been allowed to do whatever you wanted. But this is goin' one step too far. This man may be your brother, but I'm your husband. An' as long as you're Mrs. Michael Regan your first dooty is to ME! An' I'm not goin' to have you sit in MY house an' teach my worst enemy the best way to land on me jaw."

"I didn't!" she cried. "I didn't tell him a thing. You can ask him!"

"S-o!" snarled Regan. "I hit the bull's-eye that time. That WAS the reason you sneaked in here tonight, Griswold. To get my own wife to help you in your scrap against me. You're a sweet sort of a chap, ain't you? You let me help you when you were down an' out an' then you make my men strike on me. An' now you try to make my wife welch on me. Lord! If that's HONESTY, give me crookedness!"

"You've got it already!" retorted Donald. "Don't worry."

"An' now, you gum-shoed porch climber!" shouted Regan, stung by the other's cool insolence, "beat it! I ever catch you here again you won't leave the house alive!"

"I'm going," said Donald, quite unmoved by the threat, and walking deliberately toward the door. "Keep your eye on St. Mary's Hall tonight. There'll be a few live wires that you won't expect."

"Don!" called Emily as he reached the threshold.

"I'm through with you," answered her brother contemptuously, and the door closed behind him.

Emily sank down on a divan, her head in her hands. All at once the whole world seemed very empty and dark. Regan made as though to speak to her. But a ring from the desk telephone halted him. Picking up the receiver, he called:

"Hello? Oh, it's Porky, is it? At St. Mary's Hall, hey? Full house, you say? What's that? Jammed to the doors and a crowd chokin' the street outside? Hey? Oh, waitin' for young Griswold, are they? Well, he's comin' there now. In his auto. I wish 'twas his hearse. Call me up again when the speakin' begins."

"Mr. Regan," announced the butler at the door. "There is a—a person—from the Labor Union. He says he has an appointment with you to"——

"Send him in," ordered Regan. "It's the chap they were going to send to me with their ultimatum," he explained to Emily.

A thin, ill-dressed man came in. Before Regan could speak Emily came forward.

"Why, Mr. Scanlan!" she exclaimed. How are you? And is Mrs. Scanlan any better today?"

"Just 'bout the same, ma'am, thanks," mumbled the confused striker.

"I'm so glad she's no worse," answered Emily. "Michael, Mr. Scanlan's wife has bronchitis and"——

"Uh—huh!" grunted Regan. "Your name's Scanlan, is it?" he went on, addressing the striker. "I remember you. I fired you one day for givin' me back talk. Whatcher want?"

"At a meeting of the board last night," began the striker, formally, "we passed a resolution to"——

"To blazes with your resolutions! What's your ultimatum? What's the least you scoopers will take?"

"A ten-hour day," replied Scanlan, briefly. "Two shifts. A general superintendent elected by our union. Our own saloons and no one fired for using them instead of yours. An—25 per cent raise on all wages. That's all."

"All?" queried Regan in ironic wonder. "Sure you don't want my watch and chain?"

"We don't want anything that isn't ours by rights," answered the striker.

"Who framed up that ultimatum? Griswold, wasn't it? Yes—I thought so!"

"Never mind who framed it up," retorted Scanlan. "What's your answer?"

"Oh," said Regan, with ominous mildness, as he walked toward the other. "You want my answer, do you?"

"Yes, we do!" blustered the striker, emboldened into bullying by the other's unexpected gentleness. "We want your answer, and if it isn't the sort of answer we want we'll soak it to you all the harder later on."

"You'll soak it to me all the harder?" repeated Regan, still more mildly.

"That goes!" declared the striker. "Come off your perch, Mike Regan! We've got you licked, and you know we've got you licked. What's your next move, you dirty slave driver?"

"This!" answered Regan, coolly.

His short, thick left arm shot out like an engine's driving bar. The fist caught Scanlan on the side of the jaw. The striker collapsed on the hardwood floor with a crash that shook the window panes. He quivered a little, then lay very still.

Emily, with a cry of horror, threw herself on her knees beside the stricken man.

"Get up, you quitter!" roared Regan, drawing back his foot as though to kick Scanlan into life.

"Michael," cried Emily. "Don't! You've"——

"Haven't croaked him, have I?" muttered Regan, in vague alarm.

Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Betty Vincent.

THIS is going to be a little sermon to the men who write to me for advice. I hope they will read it and heed it.

I want to suggest that they do not take up all of a girl's time if they are not seriously interested in her.

Young men, you have no earthly right to ask a girl not to accept the attentions of other men unless you wish to marry her. To be sure, it is foolish for a girl to heed a man who would jealously keep her to himself, although unwilling to make a similar sacrifice to her. But the primal fact remains that men should not make such requests.

If you are in love with a girl and want to make her your wife—well and good. Do anything you legitimately can do to win her from other men. But if you do not care for her enough to marry her it is most unfair to the girl to spoil whatever other chances she may have of a happy future.

Has Grown Cold.

A. M. writes: "For some time I have been calling upon a young lady and I wish to marry her. At first she seemed to care for me, but lately she has grown cold. She assures me she is not in love with any other man. Now what can I do to hold her love?"

I fear, if you are treating her with all the courtesy you can and are paying her every attention, that is all you can do. There is no other way to win her love.

Another Man.

C. J. S. writes: "I am in love with a girl and I thought she liked me. However, a few days ago I received a letter warning me she was not true to me. Kindly tell me what to do?"

Follow your own judgment in your estimation of the young lady and do not permit any letters to influence you.

Were Schoolmates.

H. E. writes: "I used to be acquainted with a young man. In fact, we were schoolmates. Lately I lost track of him, but I now know where he is living. How may I renew the old friendship?"

If the young man wishes to renew your friendship, he will seek you. It is not your place to make the advances.

Pavlowa, the Dancer, on American Women

From an Article in Harper's Bazar.

DEAR American ladies, you are not very graceful. You are very beautiful, and you wear marvelous toilettes, but you are not exceedingly graceful. I wonder why? Shall I tell you something I have sometimes thought since I came to your country? Grace, real grace, is founded on natural, normal, perfect health. No, I do not mean the robust; I mean the virile, sinuous and supple. The big hips, the fat shoulders, are as unhealthy and unnatural as scrawniness and anemia. Is there anything finer to see, more beautiful, than the absolutely sure grace of any living creature entirely healthy? I think not. Now, you are going to ask me, what have these things I am saying to do with you? Must I make myself plainer? I have just explained that almost any normal, healthy living creature is naturally graceful. Well, then, can you not conceive that an unhealthy and abnormal creature might almost as necessarily be awkward? No, I am not saying all American women are unhealthy and abnormal, but, to tell you the truth, it has sometimes occurred to me that a little more work—I mean by that, definite and healthy occupation—would make the women of your country healthier and happier, more normal and—more graceful.

DEAR American ladies, never stand with your weight evenly divided, your heels together, and your shoulders squared. That is, never stand in this position unless you wish to look like a German officer on parade. A woman's body as she stands in a drawing room, or pauses to speak to a friend, should always be relaxed. I call all the great Greek statuary to bear witness that what I say is so. Remember that charming broken line on the left side of the Venus de Milo—the long, graceful sweep of the right side. That is the ideal of what I mean. Always allow the weight of the body to rest more on one foot than on the other. Have the foot which is not bearing the weight lightly touching the ground; after all, it is but balancing the body. Allow the entire side of the torso to relax with the foot and limb which is shirking the burden. That lets the hip and the shoulder down, throws up slightly and charmingly the hip and shoulder supporting the weight. The attitude is graceful, natural, altogether feminine.

REMEMBER always to arch the throat, almost as a horse does. If a woman, talking to some one, turns her shoulders slightly from him, and then glances back, the line of the throat is always good. For myself, I have at all times thought the delicate line from the tip of a woman's ear to the top of her shoulder one of the most exquisite of the feminine body. Many artists, I believe, would agree with me. So remember what I say, dear ladies—do not spoil or hide that lovely contour with high linen collars or boning. Wear low collars, or if these are not becoming to you, at least dress your throats comfortably.

Always carry the chin high. If, while you are still quite young, you can remember to thrust the chin upward and forward—not at an absurd degree, of course—you will not, with advancing years, have to fear those soft rolls of flesh above the collar that add so much to a woman's apparent age.

Fresh Water Leviathan.

A GENTLEMAN was strolling across a large estate when he came upon a man fishing.

"What sort of fish do you catch here?" he said.

"Mostly trout," replied the man.

"How many have you caught?"

"About ten or twelve, sir."

"What is about the heaviest you have caught?" continued the gentleman.

"Well, I don't know the weight, but the water sunk two or three feet when I pulled it out."—Chicago Journal.

Strictly Truthful.

THEY had had a good day on the moors, and the conversation after dinner turned naturally on bags and shooting in general and in particular.

"Wa-al," said the American visitor, "I reckon I ain't done myself justice today. Why, I was out gunning once at home and I brought down 99 birds with one shot."

"Oh, come now," chuckled his host, good-naturedly; "why not make it a hundred at once?"

"What, sir," exclaimed George Washington II, "do you think I'd perjure my soul for one bird?"—London Onlooker.

Breathe Hyomei and Break Up That Stubborn Cold

It's a well-known fact that HYOMEI when breathed regularly will banish catarrh and all its disagreeable symptoms but there are many people who do not know that HYOMEI is a most sensible remedy to quickly break up a cold.

A hard cold is dangerous at any time; it leads to pneumonia and pleurisy and other illness equally severe. Remove all danger at once by breathing HYOMEI; its soothing, healing antiseptic action on the mucous membrane gives prompt relief. For stuffed up head, snuffles, hawking, spitting and continual discharges of mucus nothing will act more quickly than HYOMEI.

To break up a cold in the shortest possible time breathe HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) through the inhaler 4 or 5 times during the day and at night just before retiring try this vapor treatment.

Into a bowl three-quarters full of boiling water pour a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and bowl with a towel and breathe for five miuutes the antiseptic vapor that arises.

A complete HYOMEI outfit which includes a bottle of HYOMEI and a small hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00; extra bottles of HYOMEI, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

For catarrh, colds, coughs, sore throat, croup, asthma and catarrhal deafness, HYOMEI is guaranteed. Mail orders filled charges prepaid by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Booklet on catarrh mailed free. Sold by druggists everywhere.

WALLACE TO HOLD BROWNIES UNDER WRAPS IN SOUTH

Players Will Not Be Permitted to Use Arms Foolishly on Training Trip.

DOOIN GETS LOCAL BOYS

Hugh Miller and Joe Mowry Will Strive for Places With Philadelphia Team.

No matter what the weather conditions are at Hot Springs during the Browns' stay there next month, Manager Rhody Wallace doesn't intend to permit his players to cut loose, as is often the case with many young athletes. As the team is scheduled to remain in the South at least three weeks, Wallace believes his men will be able to take matters slowly and gradually work themselves into condition.

Wallace will pay particular attention to the arms of his pitchers. Not until a diagnosis shows that he has thoroughly worked out the kinks of his salary whip will he be allowed to participate in any of the exhibition frolics that will be arranged. The little Scot fears the loss of some promising young player because of too much enthusiasm on the part of the ballplayer.

Wallace has granted permission to Outfielder Jimmy Murray, obtained from the St. Paul (American Association) team, to remain away from the training camp until March 14. Murray is a life saver at Ormond Beach, Fla. In a letter to Manager Wallace he states that he is serving in that capacity for the eighth year, and in all that time he has always reported to his manager in good condition. Murray is expected to win a permanent berth in the Browns' outfield.

Dooin Gets Local Boys.

Two St. Louis boys will endeavor to win berths with the Philadelphia Nationals this season. They are First Baseman Hugh Miller, last season with the Keokuk (Central Association) team, and Joe Mowry, one of the outfielders of the Houston (Texas League) team. They leave St. Louis next Tuesday for Birmingham, Ala., where Manager Dooin's forces will train.

Miller was rated the best first sacker in the Central Association last season. He greatly impressed Scout Charley Barrett of the Browns, who toured that section of the country, but Miller was permitted to go to the Philadelphia club. While he will hardly supplant "Kitty" Bransfield, he is said to have prospects for an excellent future.

Mowry ranked with the best outfielders in the Texas League last season. In fact he has been a star in that organization for several seasons and the sharps expect him to stick in the big league, now that he has finally graduated.

Fenske's Successor Is Here.

Richard Shaner of Providence has reached St. Louis to take up his duties as superintendent of League Park. Shaner succeeds Herr Herman Fenske, who has been identified with local baseball parks for a quarter of a century. Fenske is now running a wettery opposite League Park.

Shaner is said to be one of the best groundkeepers in the country. He hopes to have the playing field in good shape by the time the Cardinals return from their preliminary outing at West Baden next month.

EXETER BOYS BEST WINNERS FOR YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 24.—Statistics compiled at Yale University show that 98 per cent of the men taking active part in athletics there did corresponding work while in their preparatory schools.

Practically every man who has won his "Y" in the history of the University has previously won his preparatory school letter.

Nearly 80 per cent of the men who have won other athletic rewards at Yale took part in the same sport in school. Of the preparatory schools which send men to Yale, Phillips Exeter has had the biggest percentage of its graduates successful in sports.

MICHIGAN SOON TO HAVE BOXING AGAIN

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 24.—At the request of many athletic clubs, State Senator Cartier last night introduced a bill permitting six-round no-decision boxing contests with five-ounce gloves, providing no prizes are awarded.

As Gov. Osborn and many of the Legislators have gone on record as favoring such contests, the bill has an excellent chance of becoming a law.

West Virginia Hits Poolrooms.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 24.—Gov. W. E. Glasscock is expected to attach his signature today to the "poolroom bill," passed by both branches of the Legislature on Wednesday. The bill forbids the operation of poolrooms in the State, but legalizes betting at the tracks.

Horsemen who have been actively urging the bill at Charleston say they believe it makes a certainty the establishment of a racing plant at Chester, W. Va.

Motor Cyclists Plan Racing Circuit.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The Federation of American Motor Cyclists has launched a proposition for a national racing circuit for motor cyclists. Riders are enthusiastically in favor of the plan and hope that it means a revival of interest which will make motor cycle racing as popular as bicycle racing was during the period of the L. A. W.'s greatest activity.

Wisconsin Five Wins.

GREELEY, Colo., Feb. 24.—The Company F basket ball team of Portage, Wis., last night defeated the Greeley Arrows, Colorado champions, 45 to 37. The teams will meet again tonight.

FORTY YEARS IN BASEBALL by ADRIAN C. "CAP" ANSON.

CHAPTER IX.

I Sell the Ten-Thousand-Dollar Beauty.

I SUPPOSE that if I should neglect to say something about the two series of games, one in 1885, the other in 1886, that we played with the St. Louis Browns some fellow from way back would rise to remark that I have a mighty poor memory when it comes to disagreeable things. Well, maybe I have, but I'm going to say a little something about those games all the same.

To start with, I want to observe that the St. Louis team was a strong organization and could have held its own against any other team in the League. In the first series we broke even, each winning three games, the odd one being a tie. Next year we were beaten, fairly beaten, but I must say that in my opinion there was a very good reason for our defeat. The games were played both seasons after the Chicago players had passed out of my control and the relaxation in the regular discipline made the boys careless. If they had taken as good care of themselves just before playing these games as they were obliged to when the regular season was on there would have been a different story to tell.

The big baseball sensation of 1887 was the sale by the Chicago management of Mike Kelly to the Boston club. The sum of 10,000 noble plunks went into the Chicago club's treasury as the result of this transaction, the largest amount that had ever been paid for a ball player. If you think that Mike didn't have a better opinion of himself when he heard of his market price than he'd ever had before—that's because you didn't know Mike. It didn't take long for the title of "Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty" to attach itself to his rather plain-looking phiz, and it made a great hit with the fans. Besides the glory it gave him, the sale was of considerable practical benefit to Kelly, who received a salary nearly double that which he got when he wore a Chicago uniform.

The Chicago team for that season of 1887 was made up of Mark Baldwin, Clarkson and Van Haltren, pitchers; Daly, Flint, Darling and Hardie, catchers; Anson, Pfeffer, Burns and Tebeau, basemen; Sullivan, Ryan, Pettit, Van Haltren and Darling, fielders. It was a mighty hefty bunch, even if it was minus Mike Kelly. That season, too, was the most successful in the history of the League up to that time, financially and from the viewpoint of good ball playing. I am compelled to admit that, even if we didn't carry off the pennant.

The campaign opened the last of April and at the end of the first month Detroit was in the lead, with Boston a good second. My team didn't get beyond fifth place until June. At the close of that month we had stepped up one place, Detroit, Boston and New York still in advance. Our boys were playing a mighty good game at that time and our chances for the championship were not so very slim. During all the month of July we climbed steadily up the ladder, and Sept. 1 found us in second place, within striking distance of Detroit. By the last week of August Chicago and Detroit were tied in the matter of games won. At that time it was anybody's race as far as the two leaders were concerned.

Detroit Trims Famous Browns—A Feat Anson's Men Had Failed to Do

THE middle of September told a different tale. Detroit secured a winning lead and after that all the interest centered in the scramble for second place between Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. By the end of that month New York was out of the fight and we were left to wrestle with the Quaker City team. When it came to a fall the latter was on top.

Then the victorious Detroits sailed in and did what we failed to accomplish the previous season—they beat the St. Louis Browns by one game in the series for the world's championship that was played after the close of the regular league season. Maybe you think that was an easy pill for us to swallow!

The attendance everywhere that season was enormous, the capacity of the biggest grounds all over the country being taxed to the utmost. All the clubs made money, even those that didn't make much of a show. All the clubs woke up to the fact that baseball had become one of the important industries of the country, and from that time to this day the business features of the game have played a major role.

Early in the spring of 1888 the management of the Chicago club made another big sale and pocketed a check for $10,000 for the release of John Clarkson, a man who had more than once pitched the White Stockings to victory. Personally, it was like pulling teeth to see John go, for we had come to look on him as a necessity almost, and it seemed as if a hole had been made in the organization that would be mighty difficult to fill. But the Boston folks were determined to get that pennant if they had to spend all their earnings in the business. They realized that Mike Kelly alone couldn't do the trick, and they were willing to help him out.

Of course, this sale had the effect of knocking the bottom out of our reputation as topnotchers. Those who had been our antagonists in so many hard fights began the season with the notion that we would be dead easy now that two of our bright and shining lights were no longer with us, and there was more or less rejoicing throughout the League. It didn't take very long for us to demonstrate the fact that the spark of life was still flickering in our midst. We were in it, very much in it, from start to finish, and at the close of the season we had soared to second place, New York being at the top. Again Boston had failed to make good in spite of her big plunge for the championship. The best Mike and John could do for their new bosses was to put the club in fourth place.

For the first time in several years I led the League in the matter of batting averages, with .343 to my credit, a single point less than Beckley of Pittsburg. The preceding season I had stood second on the list, with a percentage of .421.

Brown and Hogan Easy Picking, Is Attell's Verdict

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, who is taking life easy in New York waiting for his broken arm to mend, is already itching for a chance to try his skill with "Knockout" Brown and "One-Round" Hogan.

He witnessed their argument before an uptown sporting club on Wednesday night and his comment on the bout was mainly composed of a series of regrets that he was prevented from joining issues with them at once.

"Here I am laid up with a broken arm and can't fight again for two months," he said. "What easy picking these fellows would be for me. And Wolgast! I'd gladly try conclusions with him, too. I'm losing some great chances to make money and show up some of these alleged world beaters. I'd like to box Brown 10 rounds and make the weight 130 pounds ringside."

HEBNER MAKES NEW INDOOR TANK MARK

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—A new world's record and a new mark in the records of the Central Amateur Athletic Union was set in the scholastic and academy swimming meet here last night.

Harry Hebner of the Illinois Athletic Club made 40 yards back stroke in 33 1-5s., lowering the world's record of 37s. held by H. J. Handy; Perry McGillvray of the Crane High School broke the A. A. U. record for 100 yards, making the distance in 57 2-5s.

BOXING BILL PASSES WASHINGTON HOUSE

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 24.—The Wray bill, legalizing 10-round boxing bouts when the contestants wear six-ounce gloves and no decision is given, passed the House of Representatives yesterday by a bare majority.

Same League May Furnish St. Louis Another Konetchy

First Baseman McAuley of Chicago, now signed up with the Browns, has had several years of experience in the Wisconsin-Illinois League, and after Konetchy left to go to the St. Louis Cardinals was regarded as the best in the league. He is the fourth good first sacker to come out of the Wisconsin-Illinois League within the last four years. It seems as if the organization has a hobby of turning out first-class men. Konetchy was the first to come out and he made good immediately after he had hit .358 in 1907. Fred Luderus and John Ness, who were drafted in 1910, have given promise. Luderus was retained by Philadelphia of the National Leeague, but Ness was sent back for more grooming, but has been recalled by Detroit and has a good chance to stay. Ness also is a Chicago boy.

Now McAuley has been procured by the Browns of St. Louis. As Hedges' club is weak there and McAuley is better than an ordinary man, it seems as if St. Louis would boast of two great first sackers out of the Wisconsin-Illinois League. McAuley kept out of minor league baseball last season and played with the West Ends of Chicago on account of business reasons. He was urged by Jack Pickett to sign with the Browns.

Hofman to Swing in Line.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Arthur Hofman, the Cubs' center fielder, has promised Manager Chance that he will sign a contract. Dissatisfied with the terms of the contract offered him, Hofman threatened to quit the game, but after a long conference with the Peerless Leader, decided he would again be a member of the National League champions.

BROWN WILLING TO GIVE HOGAN ANOTHER CHANCE

Californian Will Have to Wait Until Wolgast and Murphy Get Their Turns.

DUTCHMAN FEARS NOBODY

"Knockout" Grows Better With Each Fight, Says His Manager, Danny Morgan.

BY ROBERT EDGREN,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—All the town is talking—and the Brown-Hogan fight is the topic. Whew, that was a fight!

A funny thing is that a week or so ago the "wise bunch" quietly passed around a tip that Hogan wasn't game, and that Jimmy Coffroth had written from California to tell his friends the one-round boy had a desire to lie down when the punches came his way too often.

That, now that the fight is over, looks like a real joke.

Danny Morgan called me up on the phone yesterday evening. Dan seemed to be very hoarse. I suspect that he had been talking about the fight a little and the unaccustomed use of his vocal cords strained his throat. Here and there I culled out a few things that Dan said.

"Say, can that Hogan fight? Well, let me tell you he hit Brown harder than any other guy ever hit him in his life. That punch of Bert Keyes was a love tap beside some that Hogan landed—take it from me. I thought sure two or three times he'd knock 'K. O.'s' head off. For the first time in my life, I thought Brown was going to be knocked out. Now I know nobody can hurt him.

Ate Up the Punishment.

"And say, 'K. O.' hit that guy some punches in the body hard enough to kill an elephant. They say that guy isn't game. Well, he's the first man I ever saw take the hardest punch 'K. O.' could sling, and not back up. In that ninth round 'K. O.' hit him on the jaw as hard as he ever hit anybody in his life and Hogan didn't move back an inch. He just leaned in and looked for a chance to shoot that right over again. He'll clean up all the other lightweights around here, sure. He's the best that ever came out of the West.

"Yes, Brown will fight him again, any time. 'K. O.' has Wolgast first, then Murphy, and then he may take Hogan on. This Wolgast fight is a pipe. 'K. O.' will beat him easy this time. The Dutchman is getting better every time he fights. Did you see his right? He knocked out two of Hogan's teeth with a short right hook and he dropped him with the right. 'K. O.' has two good hands now, take it from me. He'll get Wolgast inside of 10 rounds, or I'm a Dutchman."

HANS MUST SIGN UP OR SIT ON THE JURY

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 24.—Judges Kennedy and Davis today notified Hans Wagner that he will be excused from jury duty, beginning March 6, if he shows that he has signed with the Pirates and is ready to start to West Baden with the team. Otherwise he must sit two weeks on the jury.

Hans agreed to show the Court his contract. It is an open secret in legal circles that the management of the Pittsburg team arranged to have Wagner drawn on the present venire to compel him to sign without delay. For several seasons Wagner has postponed closing his contract until late spring and given Pittsburg baseball fans heart failure by intimating he was about to retire from the game.

M. A. C. BOXERS WHO HOPE TO WIN DUAL MEET AT NEW ORLEANS CLUB TONIGHT

M. A. C. MEN CHOICE OVER SOUTHERNERS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24. — Four boxing bouts between representatives of the Missouri Athletic Club of St. Louis and the Young Men's Gymnastic Club of New Orleans will be the attraction at the Y. M. G. C. this evening. The Mound City men are said to be among the best in the Middle West, and conceded an excellent chance to win the majority of bouts from the locals. The program follows: 105 pounds, Robert Gresham, M. A. C., vs. A. Simon, Y. M. G. C.; 130 pounds, Charles Dalwitz, M. A. C., vs. F. McFarland, Y. M. G. C.; 138 pounds, Peter Sturholdt, M. A. C., vs. Dave Johnstone, Y. M. G. C.; Joe Burke, M. A. C., vs. "unknown," Y. M. G. C.

WRAY'S COLUMN

UNLESS "Doc" Scanlon and Owner Ebbets of the Brooklyn club reach an agreement, there is a chance for Roger Bresnahan to obtain the best fielding pitching in the National League, and a fairly dependable winner in the bargain. That is "Doc" Scanlon, who is rowing over a matter of a $400 salary cut, handed him by the management of the Superbas. "Doc" says he'll chauffeur a trolley car ere he'll accept the ignominy of a sliced meal ticket.

In the present uncertain condition of Roger's pitching department—uncertain despite all the mirages that have been conjured up as to the probable performances of the new members of the staff—one man who can deliver a certain brand of baseball should be very welcome.

Scanlon took part in some 34 games last year, winning nine and losing 11, for a percentage of .450. As the club finished with a mark of .416, this is something better than the team itself did, and is hardly deserving of a cut.

But Ebbets is insisting, and the probabilities are that Brooklyn would turn a listening ear if Roger would start flirting.

Pity the Poor Tailender.

BASEBALL players with losing clubs have a hard time. They get scant recognition for exceptional performance and as the team is not making money they generally are underpaid for their work. They have no redress except to quit the game, which is no redress at all. If Walter Johnson were with the New York or Chicago clubs he could get what he asked virtually, besides a chance to prove that he is really the greatest pitcher of them all.

It's a tough break for a real baseball player to hook up with a tail-end team when he's going his best.

• • •

Harry Howell has not yet signed up with the Milwaukee team, as announced Harry is dickering with Louisville as well as Milwaukee, from whom he has received but not forwarded a contract. Louisville is after Harry to play an infield turn.

Why Not Here, Too.

THE New York athletic clubs conducting boxing bouts have obtained an injunction which prevents the police department of New York from entering the club. A magistrate Thursday reprimanded officers bringing such evidence against the Brown-Hogan fight as newspaper clippings, expecting to obtain a warrant. The judge declared he would imprison the policemen who brought such information to the magistrate. The police, being denied entrance to the club, could get no firsthand evidence.

Is this a possible loophole for boxing in the State of Missouri? In St. Louis they back the wagon to the front door and raid away until all the clubs grow fearful of the consequences. If it's a crime to raid a fight before it takes place in New York, why is the same not true in Missouri? Are St. Louis clubs any less inviolate than New York ones? Certainly they are more legitimate.

What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Pass it around, please.

• • •

Czar Ban Right Again.

YOU have to hand it to that Big Ban Johnson, even if he does strut up and down, ordering the rest of the magnates around like Simon Legree on third speed. Whenever it comes right down to brass tacks about the facts of anything pertaining to baseball, Big Ban is there with the reply—and also the said facts.

Anent his failure to provide a committee to consider jointly with a National League committee about changing the rules, Ban simply says no request was made of him to name such a committee. Which ought to settle all criticism. Incidentally he points out that some of the changes a number of persons have been howling about, among them the "lowering" of the pitcher's mound, are already covered in the rules. Says Ban:

Here's That "Mound" Dope.

"The rules already provide now that the altitude of the pitching slab shall not exceed 15 inches above home plate. Nor is there any club, in the American League at least, that employs this 15 inches in the form of a 'mound.' The rise is gradual from all sides of the diamond, the location of the pitching box naturally making it the summit. This construction is a necessity of drainage conditions and could not be reduced. If the clubs in the two leagues observe this rule there will be nothing left to change.

"As to rules preventing the coacher from seizing a runner at third to keep him from overstepping his station too far, the rules already cover that point. The American League umpires are instructed to call out the runner if any such tactics are employed."

• • •

No Demand for Changes.

THAT Ban is right is still further backed up by President Lynch of the National League, who says that there is no demand for changes other than a little idle conversation.

"If changes were needed, it did not take a joint committee to bring them about. The National could have amended the rules to suit its own needs."

So ends the annual teapot tempest over rule changes which rages every year and every year simmers quietly down until the off-season needs of writers starts the pot boiling.

Baseball is a pretty good game, as it stands today. If it needs a little sandpapering in spots the umpire has ample authority to do this, generally.

Trolley Leaguers to Meet.

A meeting of the new Trolley League is scheduled for Saturday night. The list of teams to compose the league will be selected.

McFARLAND WILL WIN MORAN BOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Packy McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, and Owen Moran, the visiting Briton, agreed this afternoon to weigh in at 135 pounds at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of March 1. They will fight that night at the Fairmont A. C.

McFarland left for Chicago this afternoon, but will return to finish his training here. Moran left for Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he will stay until a few day's before the battle. He will finish his training at Lake Wood.

"One of the greatest fights of the season will result when McFarland and Moran meet in a 10-round contest," said Charlie White, featherweight boxer, today. "I have had the gloves on with McFarland in the gymnasium and have seen Moran fight in the ring and know what each man can do.

"I saw Moran in only one battle, with Battling Nelson, but then I studied his style carefully, as I hope to get a bout with him some time. In my opinion the match between those fellows would be worth going miles to see.

"Both are clever, fast and heady boxers. I think McFarland can beat Moran in 10 rounds, because he is faster and more clever, but I have my doubts about it in a long battle.

MUNICIPAL COURT BILL OPPONENTS DEPEND ON HOUSE

Committees of Both Branches of Assembly Favorable to St. Louis Measure.

LIKELY TO PASS SENATE

Test Will Come in Lower Body When City Republicans Trade Their Support.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 24.—Opposition to the St. Louis Municipal Courts bill now falls back to the membership of the two houses of the General Assembly, the opponents of the measure having failed to prevent a favorable report on the bill by the Judiciary Committees of the houses. The Senate committee, by a vote of 4 to 2, last night made a favorable report on the bill. The House committee reported favorably on it Wednesday.

A poll of the Senate indicates that the measure probably will pass that body with a good vote, but its friends have been unable to determine what the House will do. The action of members of the St. Louis delegation in opposing the bill is drawing some support from the newer members from the country, who have expressed a willingness to vote against the municipal courts bill if the St. Louis members will vote with them on bills in which they are interested.

Dollarhide Opposes Bill.

Representative W. A. Dollarhide of Benton County, a Republican, in soliciting votes for one of his bills yesterday from two members of the St. Louis delegation, promised to vote as they desired on the municipal courts bill.

The prosecuting attorneys in some of the smaller counties of the State receive only $800 a year. Dollarhide introduced a bill in the House to increase this salary to $1200 a year. He approached Representatives Warner and Kramer, St. Louis members, in the Madison Hotel, yesterday, and urged them to vote for his bill. While he was explaining its provisions, Warner asked him how he stood on the municipal courts bill.

"Oh, we'll vote as you want us to on that," Dollarhide replied.

Senator Phillips asked the Senate committee again last night to postpone action on the bill. He said the St. Louis Bar Association had not had an opportunity to reply to his constitutional argument made a few nights ago, and that a postponement would give the association a chance to decide whether it wanted to meet his argument.

St. Louisans Vote Against It.

Senators Humphrey and Oliver told Phillips that they did not believe there was occasion for further delay. The committee then went into executive session and decided to make a favorable report.

Senator Krone of St. Louis and Senator Gardner of St. Louis County, Republicans, cast the only votes against a favorable report. Those favorable were Senators McAllister of Monroe County, Humphrey of Shelby, Oliver of Pemiscot and Greene of Kansas City. Greene has said he was inclined to oppose the bill, but believed it should be reported favorably. Senators Casey, White, Wilson, Hawkins, Busby and Methudy were absent. Hawkins, Busby and Wilson favor the bill. Casey opposes it. White has not announced his position.

Republicans Change Heart.

Hiram Lloyd, leader of the St. Louis Republican delegation, who was one of the most active supporters of the bill two years ago, is leading the opposition. It is believed that the Democrats of both houses, with few exceptions, will support the bill. In every committee meeting at which Republicans from St. Louis have opposed the bill, Democrats have asked them whether the fact that the Republicans control practically all justice of the peace districts in St. Louis this year is responsible for their change. The Republicans have said it is not, but have not explained their change of heart.

The bill will be up for engrossment in both houses early next week, and the test will there be made of members who have votes to trade on this bill for the votes of members of the St. Louis delegation.

NAME BLOWN IN THE BOTTLE

Seldom Equaled
Never Excelled

HERE'S our new amber-colored bottle, with the name blown in it. Experienced brewers agree that the amber-colored bottle is the only correct bottle, as it preserves the flavor and saves the beer from being affected by light, which penetrates white glass. The name on the bottle insures its return to our brewery, where it will be sanitarily cleaned before using again.

In Memoriam.
In loving memory of my dear husband, William Eugene Dunn, who departed this life Feb. 24, 1910. May his soul rest in peace.

His loving smile, his welcome face,
None can fill his vacant place.

KREISMANN MAY MEET WITH JUDGES

General Term Session to Discuss Board of Equalization Appointments.

The Circuit Court judges, in general term, will meet at 2 p. m. Saturday for the purpose of discussing appointments to the Board of Equalization which, under the law, must be selected before March 4.

It was said at the Courthouse Friday that Mayor Kreismann will attend the meeting and that he has complied with the request of the Circuit Judges that he return the books which he took with him when he retired as Circuit Clerk.

One of Circuit Clerk Graves' appointments for courtroom clerk is yet to be confirmed. Graves selected his son, Charles W. Graves, but Judge Withrow, in whose courtroom the new clerk is to serve, has asked that George W. Stinebaker be reappointed.

It has been the custom to accept the suggestion of a Judge as to who shall serve as clerk in his courtroom.

WILD BILL HATFIELD SHOOTS INSURRECTO

Member of Famous Feudist Family Kills Man in His Own Band.

MEXICALI, Mexico, Feb. 24.—"Wild Bill" Hatfield, one of the famous McCoy-Hatfield feudists of Kentucky, who is an American recruit in Gen. Leyvas' army, shot a Mexican insurrecto named Francisco last night. Hatfield used an automatic gun and the victim's face was shot away. Francisco was taken to the international line by his Mexican comrades and rolled across the border. He was picked up by the Red Cross attendants and taken to the hospital in Calexico, where he died.

Nothing was done with Hatfield by the insurgents. It is thought the shooting may cause a feud between the American and Mexican members of the insurrectos. One hundred insurrectos marched out of Mexicali last night to form a junction with the advance guard of 60 sent out Wednesday. With the detachment went Gen. Leyva, who will operate against Ensanada.

A. G. VANDERBILT TO WED MRS. M'KIM SOON

Friends Say the Ceremony Will Take Place at London Registry Office.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Smith Hollins McKim, who divorced Dr. McKim at Reno, Nev., are expected to be married at a London registry office within a few weeks. Close friends of both in this city and Baltimore are sponsors for this report, which also has gained wide circulation in club and social circles in London. Vanderbilt is in London, while the divorcee denies herself to interviewers at Arcadia, the shooting lodge of her father, Col. Isaac Emerson, near Georgetown, S. C.

According to intimates of Mrs. McKim, she was to have sailed for London before Christmas, but was prevented from doing so by threatened litigation, her divorced husband having declared he proposed to test the validity of her Reno decree.

The Bishop will go to Jefferson City Saturday morning and will deliver two sermons there Sunday, and Monday will address the Legislature. It is understood that Bishop Denny has practically decided to make his headquarters in Richmond. A married daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Denny lives in Richmond.

As an added inducement to live there, an offer of a $10,000 home, duplicating that made by former Gov. Lon V. Stephens to get him to come to St. Louis, has been made by Richmond Methodists.

MOBS IN MADRID AND PARIS JEER TROUSERS SKIRT

Police Have to Intervene Every Time Its Wearers Appear in Public.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Incidents of public disturbance daily accompany the appearance in the streets of women wearing the new trousers skirt.

The Avenue de l'Opera was the scene of one of the more serious outbreaks. The woman, surrounded by a laughing, jeering crowd, was unable to proceed, and a man, taking advantage of the situation, purchased a basket of eggs from a dealer in a side street and distributed them among the other men. They, in order to show their disapproval, pelted the helpless wearer of the new garment until a squad of police intervened and aided her to escape.

Doubts appear to have arisen among the leading Paris dressmakers whether the skirt will be adopted by women as a general fashion.

Few have been ordered thus far, and these have gone chiefly to women from abroad who are shopping here and wished to take home the latest sensation. Many models have been sent to prominent houses dealing in Women's wear in America.

Spanish Mob Threatens Society Women in Street.

MADRID, Feb. 24.—Two women belonging to the most exclusive society circles of this capital appeared on the streets last evening wearing the new Parisian trousers skirts, and were fairly mobbed. The crowd, which grew rapidly to great proportions, surrounded the exponents of advanced fashion and, after insulting cries, threatened violence. A large force of police came to the protection of the women and cleared the streets.

WEDDING HELPS GIRL WIN A BET OF $10

Miss Emma Wehring Hastens Marriage Ahead of That of Fellow Worker.

When Miss Emma Wehring, 27 years old, who is private secretary to M. L. Harris of 405 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, was married to Arthur Shircliffe of Guthrie, Ok., in Belleville, several months ahead of the scheduled time, she unconsciously made it possible for Miss Viola Schroeder, a stenographer in the same office, to win a bet of $10.

Shircliffe, who is manager of the Southwestern Planing Mills at Guthrie, is visiting in East St. Louis. He told Miss Wehring that he did not wish to wait until next summer to be married, and she agreed to hasten the event. Wednesday she obtained a short leave of absence from her employer and went to Belleville with Shircliffe. Justice Kretner married the couple.

Miss Schroeder accepted a wager about five months ago from Charles Short, president of the Short Moving and Storage Co., that she would not be married before Miss Wehring. Friday morning Short sent Miss Schroeder a box filled with 1000 pennies.

WARRANT ISSUED TO HOLD HUSBAND

Louis Evans, Accused of Fracturing Wife's Skull, Will Have Hearing.

A warrant charging felonious assault was issued Friday at Clayton against Louis Evans, whose wife is in the American Hospital, St. Louis, with a fractured skull. He will be given a preliminary hearing next Thursday before Justice Werremeyer.

Evans and his wife lived in a cottage on Lulu avenue, west of Wellston. Friday night she was knocked unconscious. Evans said she fell down the back stairs. She told a neighbor that she was felled by a blow in the dining room, but that she did not know who struck her.

Prosecuting Attorney Mills says he issued the warrant as a precaution and will not prosecute Evans if his wife says he is innocent. Her condition was too critical for her to be seen by the prosecutor.

JEWEL OF A MAID AND $40 MISSING

Mrs. U. L. Church Was Delighted With Her Find for a Short While.

In notifying the authorities of Clayton to try and find her lost housemaid, Mrs. W. L. Church, 611 Linden avenue, described her as: "A fast walker, worker and talker."

Louisa Bachman went to work in the Church home Thursday morning, and Mrs. Church said when she sat down with her husband to dinner Thursday evening that she never saw such a jewel of a maid. And then it came time for the dessert.

Mrs. Church looked disappointed when the first tap of the bell brought no response from the new maid. The second tap did not bring her either. Mrs. Church rang again, and then they went to hunt for the maid, but she was gone, so was her clothing and so was $40 from a wallet in the pocket of a pair of Church's trousers that hung in a closet upstairs.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

RATE DECISION CAUSES VIOLENT STOCK DECLINE

Prices Break Three to Five Points on Avalanche of Selling.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.

The market closed with a rally in progress. Most of the leaders recovered more than half of their early decline and the list reflected support to ward against agressive bear tactics. Last prices, however, were well below Thursday's finals.

The market at the noon hour showed a steadier tone with a slight recovery recorded in the leading issues. Trading was uncertain, however, and the movement irregular. Bonds were easy.

Leading issues broke from $3 to $5 a share at the opening of the stock market today, the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to advance freight rates causing the abrupt decline.

At the end of the first 15 minutes' trading Steel common was selling at 77½, Reading 154⅛, St. Paul 122⅞, New York Central 108⅞, Atchison 103, Pensylvania 126⅝, Chesapeake & Ohio 82, Missouri Pacific 56¼. There was a slight recovery after the opening break, but a feeling of uneasiness prevailed.

Seldom in the history of the "street" has the unexpected so forcibly happened. After the closing of the speculation Thursday, brokerage houses were crowded with patrons awaiting news from Washington. There was a breath of confidence in the air and a remark heard on all sides was "well the rate advances will be announced at 3 o'clock." Some well-known houses went so far as to post this notice on their blackboards. There was not the slightest doubt, in all directions, that increased rates would be the watchword.

When the wire came flashing the message, "No increases in rates east or west." Wall street gasped, but would hardly believe. Then as the importance of changed market conditions came to be realized the vast machinery of the financial district was put in motion to avoid trouble on the Stock Exchange.

The first move in the game was to adjust prices of American securities in London, and selling orders flashed across the ocean. Before the local opening today the London market showed the following changes: United States Steel a decline of 4½ points, Reading 7⅜ points, Pennsylvania 4⅞, Louisville & Nashville 3¾, Atchison 3⅛, Southern Pacific 4½, and others 1 to 3 points.

When trading opened here the market followed the foreign lead, losses on the active issues running from 1 to 5 points on a heavy volume.

An initial dividend of 2 per cent was today declared on the stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Railway, which is the new Pacific Coast link of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co. The entire capital stock of $100,000,000 of the Puget Sound company is held by the St. Paul company.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant higher rates to the Eastern and Western railroads was the signal of heavy selling of securities at the opening of today's market. Previous to the opening there was extensive liquidation of Americans in London, where prices fell from 2 to 8 points. The principal features of the opening were: United States Steel, which opened with a block of 30,000 shares at a loss of 4¼ points; Reading, with 200 shares, at 152½, followed by 10,000 at 154, compared with 159⅛ at last night's close; Union Pacific, 5000 shares of which sold down 4⅝ points; large blocks of Northern Pacific at a loss of 4¼; Great Northern preferred, which was off 7¼; Lehigh Valley, 5⅞; Missouri Pacific, 5¼; Wabash preferred, 4¼; Southern Pacific, 4⅝; Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 4¼; St. Paul, 4¼; Santa Fe, 5, and other declines ranging from 2 to 3 points. The market was very active and feverish, with slight improvement after the earlier quotations.

Prices began to drop off again with New York Central extending its loss to over 4 points, United States Steel going back to 77 and other important stocks ruling within a small fraction of their lowest, when the supporting orders were once more distributed and the decline was stopped. Reports were circulated that conferences were being held by the leading interests to meet all contingencies and the operations of the bear faction became less aggressive. Bonds were weak.

Commission houses were heavy sellers in the market, the failure of customers to respond to calls for more margin compelling heavy liquidation of accounts. After the opening realising the market began to reflect concerted support by powerful interests and stocks were forced upward despite much irregularity and feverishness in the process. Fluctuations of ½ a point or more between transactions were common. The top point of the rally showed the list generally up from 1 to 2 points from the low level, with Lehigh Valley making an exceptional rally of 3¾. Speculative bonds suffered much less proportionately than stocks. By 11 o'clock the market had quieted considerably and showed a fairly stable tone.

Normal conditions prevailed in the stock market during the noon hour, fluctuations being orderly and business much restricted. Prices ruled at about the high rallying point of the forenoon.

Slow progress upwards was made during the latter part of the day on limited dealings and there was no trace of the excitement and nervousness that characterized the earlier operations. By 2 o'clock the market was at the best level of the day, but anywhere from 1 to 4 points below yesterday's close, the latter in Union Pacific, Reading and Great Northern preferred.

RAILROAD STOCKS FALL IN LONDON

Prices on American Securities Slump From 2 to 10 Points.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission against the proposed raising of freight rates caused a shock in the American section of the Stock Exchange today. A rush of selling orders from Wall street was the signal for a slump in prices from 2 to 8 points below yesterday's closing.

In the first hour both local traders and continental representatives threw out their stocks. Then a covering movement set in, and prices picked up from 1 to 5 points, the market anxiously awaiting the Wall street opening.

At noon the tone was steadier with values from 2 to 5 points lower. Yesterday's closing and today's noon prices with the changes follow:

HAGUE DECIDES FOR GREAT BRITAIN

England Will Not Have to Give Up Hindoo Arrested in France.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 24.—The permanent court of arbitration today decided that Great Britain was not bound to surrender Vinayak Damodar Savarkar, the Indian law student, to the French Government.

The man escaped to French soil when the vessel on which he was being returned to India for trial following his arrest in London, stopped in the harbor of Marseilles. He was arrested and turned over to the British detectives. The matter of the rights of asylum for a political refugee was raised and the question of whether the prisoner should be returned to the French Government was submitted to The Hague tribunal.

The case of Savarkar was submitted for arbitration as the result of an agitation begun by French Socialists, who asserted that the Indian student was improperly surrendered to the British officers after he had set foot on French soil and appealed for refuge as a political prisoner.

Savarkar is an Indian subject of Great Britain, who was arrested upon his arrival in London on March 13, 1910, charged with sedition. The court ordered his return to Indian for trial.

DOWLING RAFFLED TWICE

Extra Inducements Cause Second Girl to Take Prize.

John J. Dowling, resident of the Dowling Real Estate Co. of Maplewood, was raffled twice Thursday night at a bazar in the Immaculate Conception Church, in Maplewood.

In the first raffle there were 200 chances at 25 cents each. He was won by Miss Edith Durham of 7215 Old Manchester road. She already had a sweetheart, and as Dowling is a widower with two children, she refused to accept him.

The Committee of Arrangeemnts, determined to find a mate for Dowling, raffled him again on the wheel of fortune, 100 chances at 10 cents a chance, and as an extra inducement Dowling promised to take the one who should win him on an automobile ride, to the matinees and to dinner after the theater.

He was won the second time by Miss Marie Merceret, 32 years old, of 7239 Moller avenue, Maplewood. They will go to the matinee Saturday afternoon.

REPUBLIC IRON AND STEEL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—It is a surprisingly good report which the Republic Iron and Steel Co. has issued for the last six months of 1910. It shows a small gain of $51,000 in profit over the same period of prosperous 1909 and this, after heavier charges for maintenance and exhaustion of minerals. There remained for the half year a balance of 5.04 per cent for dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock of $25,000,000, which is equal to a yearly rate of 10.14 per cent. This is a handsome showing and a pledge for the safety of the 7 per cent preferred dividend. This showing was probably due mostly to the policy of adjusting prices to conditions, as most of the independent steel companies have done.

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET.

So far as the fiscal position was concerned, no change was recorded today. As a whole, the week has passed without any substantial differences arising in the situation, for, while it has been expected for some time that the country banks would begin to withdraw funds for spring planting purposes, it is perfectly apparent that thus far they have not drawn against their reserve correspondents. Rates here are 4 to 4½ per cent on the very best grades of commercial paper running three to four months, while demand loans are uniformly made at 4 to 4½ per cent.

MODERN MILLER.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24.—A large area of the winter wheat country is covered with snow. Elsewhere the crop shows the benefit of recent rain and snow. In Kansas and Oklahoma, where fields were bare, the wheat now shows above ground. The general prospects of the crop are seasonably good.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—There was a falling off in receipts in the quarantine division today, only 200 head arriving. Quality was plain, no good meal or corn-fed cattle being available. Arkansas and Mississippi furnished the supply. Steers sold at $4.65 for top and some right good oxen brought $4.90. Market inclined to weakness.

HOGS—With but a moderate supply on sale the hog market opened on a 10c lower basis than yesterday morning and furthermore it was a dull, draggy market most of the day. Best pigs sold up to $7.55, which was the top of the market, while butcher hogs around 185 lbs or heavier, topped at $7.45 and heavy hogs $7.35. The bulk of the hogs of all weights sold at $7.20@7.40. Packers were bearish and did very little business during the forenoon. Butchers and shippers secured a good many good hogs of all weights at $7.35@7.55, the lighter ones bringing the highest prices. Packers paid $7.15@7.30 for their hogs. Poor-grade offerings were hard to sell at any price and brought from $5.75 to $6.75, according to quality. Roughs sold around pretty close to $7. The close was on a weak basis, but still the hogs were pretty well cleaned up.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 7 points and sold 8 to 13 points net lower during the early trading under scattered liquidation and bear pressure inspired by lower cables than expected and weakness in the stock market. Selling seemed to be promoted also by the circulation of notices against March contracts estimated at about 75,000 bales, but there was a good demand for that month around 13.73c. Prices during the middle of the morning showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest.

It was reported that while a good deal of the cotton being taken upon contract is for the account of leading bull interests, considerable of it is being taken by Southern spot people, who would sort it over and ship out part of it to fill their March engagements.

Foreign advices helped the market during the forenoon and prices at one time worked up to within 3@6 points of last night's finals. Subsequent fluctuations were somewhat irregular, however, and the market still seemed to be without any general support. The closing was irregular. Spot quiet. Middling uplands, 14.10c nominal.

Estimated receipts at the ports today, 26,000 bales, against 34,255 bales last week, and 12,791 bales last year. For the week, 110,000 bales, against 144,848 bales last week and 83,515 bales last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 8343 bales, against 979 bales last year, and at Houston, 2100 bales, against 2180 last year.

GRAIN FUTURES DRIFT THROUGH NARROW RANGE

Market Is Quiet and Professional; Foreign Prices Irregular.

Wheat futures drifted through a narrow range Friday, being influenced almost entirely by the purchases or sales of the professional traders. Liquidation of long accounts subsided, and in the late market speculation had a fairly firm tone.

Market news was not important, and about a stand-off for both bulls and bears. Liverpool prices were slightly firmer on an improved demand from the Continent and sales of an Australian cargo to France at a full price, or an advance of 3 pence. The Buenos Ayres market showed a better tone, and prices at the close yesterday had gained ⅜c to ⅝c of their heavy decline of the day before.

The Chicago market was quiet and advices indicate that Patton, Phillips and other leaders on the bear side have been covering their short contracts. There is still, however, a large professional and public short interest outstanding in all the active options.

Liverpool spot wheat closed unchanged to ½d lower; futures, ¼@⅜d up. Spot corn unchanged to ¼d lower; futures, ⅛@¼d lower. Paris wheat, 1@1¼c lower; flour, 1½c lower. Antwerp wheat, ⅝c lower; Berlin unchanged; Budapest, ¾c up.

Broomhall estimates the world's wheat shipments for the week, exclusive of North America, at 8,400,000. Total world's shipments last week were 10,718,000 bu, against 10,798,000 bu last year and 10,314,000 bu in 1909.

Argentine shipments:

	This Wk.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Wheat	3,264,000	3,370,000	2,860,000
Corn	196,000	196,000	179,000

Wheat shipments Jan. 1 to date 16,274,000 bu, against 12,904,000 bu last year. Corn 2,545,000 bu, against 2,674,000 bu last year.

Australian wheat shipments for the week totaled 2,056,000 bu, against 2,104,000 bu last year. Indian shipments 968,000 bu, against 112,000 bu last year.

Minneapolis cars of wheat today totaled 127; last week 218; last year 347. Duluth received 16, against 20 last week and 17 last year. Winnipeg 152, against 109 last week and 64 last year. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 275,000 bu for the week.

Chicago wheat receipts today were 19,200 bu, against 31,200 bu last year; shipments 8800 bu, against 31,200 bu last year.

Kansas City wheat receipts today, 16,800 bu, against 115,500 bu last year; shipments, 42,000 bu, against 69,300 bu last year.

Local wheat receipts today, 38,500 bu, or 33 cars local, 2 through; last year, 37,282 bu, or 2792 sacks, 24 cars local, 7 through.

Local corn receipts today, 34,800 bu, or 23 cars local, 6 though; last year, 61,600 bu, or 42 cars local, 14 through.

Local oats receipts today, 54,400 bu, or 27 cars local, 5 through; last year, 51,200 bu, or 30 cars local, 2 through.

Total primary wheat receipts today were 335,675 bu, against 504,000 bu last year; shipments, 229,201 bu, against 226,032 bu last year.

Duluth wheat stocks total 5,500,000 bu, an increase of 135,000 bu for the week.

Winnipeg claimed the export sale of 25 loads. Baltimore claimed 3 loads of No. 2 red to Glasgow. Neither shipment was confirmed.

Bradstreet's export figures for the week showed:

	Wheat and Flour.	Corn.
This week	1,906,000	1,858,000
Last week	2,180,000	2,028,000
Last year	1,846,000	730,000

Wheat exports, July 1 to date, 81,660,000 bu, against 107,081,000 bu; decrease 25,421,000 bu. Corn exports, 27,267,000 bu, against 17,908,000 bu; increase, 9,359,000 bu.

Corn in the local market reflected some pressure. Cable were lower on Argentine advices. The cash demand was slack, while weather over the belt favored the movement. Traders favored the selling side on the bulges, on the theory that 85-cent wheat invariably justifies 45-cent corn, when prices are not influenced by shortage in crops.

Export clearances of wheat and flour today were 190,000 bu; of corn, 110,000 bu; of oats, none.

Cash wheat closed unchanged in prices, demand light and market dull.

Cash corn steady for white and mixed, with demand quiet.

Cash oats, ¼@½c lower for white grades and slow; mixed oats steady.

NEW LINE TO KANSAS CITY

Rock Island to Have Shortest Route to St. Paul.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co. has arranged for the shortest railway line between Kansas City and St. Paul. The St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line, a subsidiary of the Rock Island, has acquired substantially all of the stocks and bonds outstanding of the St. Paul & Des Moines Railroad, which operates from Des Moines to Mason City, Io.

At the latter point connection is made with the Chicago-St. Paul line of the Rock Island, and it is proposed to construct a new line from Allerton, on the Chicago-Kansas City line of the Rock Island, northerly to Carlisle, near Des Moines. It is said also to have obtained the right to operate from there into Des Moines, as a terminal.

CHICK EATS A DIAMOND

Picks $200 Setting From Ring and X-Ray Can't Find It.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Feb. 24.—While feeding young chickens, a $200 diamond setting was picked from a ring on the finger of Miss Ruth Vause, daughter of James I. Vause, a wealthy farmer.

Her father brought the chicks to town for an X-ray search for the setting, but the experiment was in vain. Miss Vause refuses to kill the chickens.

STOMACH MISERY AND INDIGESTION IS ENDED BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.—ADV.

KAISER IS AFTER TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT DETAILS

Emperor Interested in Joseph Brucker's Plan to Cross From Canary Islands.

DIRIGIBLES TO BE SWIFT

Germans Are Seeking to Perfect Aircraft With Speed of 40 Miles an Hour.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Emperor William has personally invited Joseph Brucker to talk over his proposed voyage across the Atlantic in the dirigible balloon Suchard, which Princess Henry christened at Kiel recently. The Emperor also wishes to see the plans on which the Suchard is built and the meteorological charts showing the movements of the trade winds on which Brucker partly depends to carry him westward from the Canary Islands, his starting place.

The Emperor has honored Brucker further by bidding him attend the court ball next Tuesday. These honors are the result of Prince Henry's report to his brother that the preparations for the Suchard's voyage as being made with scientific care and thoroughness, and that the prospect for Brucker's success is excellent.

Speed to Be Increased.

The German War Department not contented to have out-distanced all competitors in the race for supremacy in dirigible balloons, is now devoting its attention to increasing the speed of these craft by reducing size, weight and atmospheric resistance, or the use of higher power motors or both. The tendency is toward small, swift cruisers, the two exceptions in this year's program being mammoth craft, carrying motors for great power. The medium sized dirigible has lost favor.

The latest Zeppelin type, a military cruiser designed for reconnoisance work, although only two-thirds as long as the Deutschland dirigible, will carry engines of the same high power. Its ends are also more pointed to decrease air resistance and insure the greatest speed. The newest Parseval ship to be commissioned in April will be only four-fifths as large as its predecessor.

Speed of 40 miles or more per hour is the aim of the German military airship designers. This speed is confidently expected of the new gross semi-rigid balloon, now awaiting suitable weather conditions for its trials, and even the monster Siemens-Schuchort dirigible, the largest nonrigid balloon in the world, will closely approximate it, a recent trial with only two of her four 75-horsepower motors working having developed a speed of more than 27 miles an hour. This airship can carry passengers and crew up to 50 persons.

Sheds on Revolving Track.

To facilitate landing in windy weather, airship sheds in Germany are now made to revolve on circular tracks. The latest innovation, an electric capstan by which the airship is drawn in and out of the shed with safety even in stormy weather, has been installed in the shed of the Siemens-Schuchkort dirigible near Berlin.

Brucker, who is to undertake the transatlantic trip, is an amateur aeronaut, has studied meteorology for many years. He formerly was editor of the Illinois Staats Zeitung of Chicago and commissioner to Germany for the St. Louis World's Fair. He is known in New York. He named his dirigible Suchard in honor of Herr Russ, head of a firm of that name, who is backing his undertaking and who has aided many scientific enterprises.

TARIFF RAISES COST OF PLUM PUDDINGS

English Delicacy Brings 5o Per Cent Valuation Under Last Revision.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The cost of English plum pudding will be advanced 30 per cent, if the Board of United States General Appraisers sustains the ruling by customs officials here.

Under the Dingley act of 1897, the pudding was allowed to enter at 20 per cent, under the provision for "unenumerated manufactured articles."

At the last revision of the tariff, however, domestic interests succeeded in having a joker incorporated into the law, in the shape of the word "other baked articles."

Collector Loeb has decided that plum puddings fall properly within the meaning of the term "baked articles," and must henceforth pay 50 per cent.
